OTTAWA RUSHES BILL ON KAISER PROJECT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today introduced in the Commons legislation to give it tight control over the use of river waters flowing into the United States and to revise its authority over the export of other forms of power.

First government bill brought in this session, the water measure would make it necessary to get a federal license to construct any work affecting the natural flow of an international river.

It would apply specifically to provincial governments as well as private interests. Federal authorities already have made it clear an immediate aim of the bill is to block a pending deal between the British Columbia government and the Kaiser Aluminum interests of the United States for use of the Columbia River for hydro power.

Alta. Priest Murdered by Hitchhikers

Three Former RCN Members
Charged With Brutal Killing

BRANDON, Man. (BUP)—Three teen-age boys, believed to be from Montreal, were jointly charged today with the gun-shot murder of a Roman Catholic priest whose body was found in his wrecked automobile five miles east of here.

Guy, 17, and Gerard J. Vyon, 17, and Gervard J. Vyon, 17, all recently discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy, were remanded without plea until Jan. 17 when they appeared in police court. Police did not immediately release the home addresses of the youths.

Robbery Believed Motive

RCMP believe robbery was the motive for the slaying of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta., and formerly of Quebec.

Police said the youths had $90 on them which they believe was stolen from the priest, who left Winnipeg about 1 p.m. on his way back to his small parish, 100 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Police said there seemed little doubt that the persons who killed Father Quirion knew he was a priest. His black overcoat and hat were found in the back seat where he apparently had discarded them while driving. He was dressed in his priest's garb.

Father Quirion is believed to have picked up the trio near Portage la Prairie, about 60 miles west of Winnipeg and 80 miles east of Brandon on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said indications were that one of the trio had got out of the car when it stopped about six miles east of Brandon. Then, it is believed the car started up again and the youth outside ran along beside it until the shooting took place and the car swerved into a ditch.

They said it appeared two shots entered the priest's right arm as he attempted to protect himself. A third shot pierced his body on the right side.

The trio arrived in Brandon Sunday about 25 minutes after the shooting. They were given a lift by an unidentified couple who saw them trying to push the car out of the ditch.

The slaying was discovered by a motorist who noticed the priest's car in the ditch. The front door of the car was open and Father Quirion was on the floor by the front seat.

One of the 32-calibre slugs recovered from the priest's body has been sent to the

British Children Mourn TV Mule

LONDON (UP)—Real tears fell in the make-believe world of children's television today.

The tears were those of little girls and boys who learned from their TV screens that Muffin, the mule, is dead.

Tangled Wreckage Was Saanich Youth's Coffin

PLANES NOT IN DANGER

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler said today newspaper and radio accounts of a reported near-collision between a TCA airliner and RCAF training plane last week were "grossly exaggerated and misleading."

He told the Commons that the pilots of both planes sighted each other near Moose Jaw, and that at no time was either aircraft in danger.

Don't Trust To Luck

CHAPTER VI

Improvisation is the gift of invention in its most primitive form. It is the art of coping with the unexpected, of dealing with entirely unforeseen circumstances in such a way that one snatches advantage from them.

The young man who would succeed must learn to practice this art until it becomes habitual, until his mind is ever alert and never at a loss when situations which he had not contemplated arise.

Improvisation is a large part of the art of life. It is of immense importance in the art of success in business.

I strongly urge the young man who would be successful to learn how to improvise.

Although the examples of improvisation which I place before him are taken from war, it is far from my mind to prepare him for another outbreak of senseless savagery. My devout hope is that he will live his life in peace. But war does present in an accentuated form many of the problems of business life, and for that reason its lessons are more vivid.

Such examples are also useful in that we still live in a period of transition from war to peace.

Three-quarters of the import of iron and steel, most of the import of iron ore, came from Europe. How did Britain let the young improviser begin by studying the life of

Ike Makes New Bid for Cut Of 15% in Tariff Structure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for power to make a "moderate, gradual and reciprocal" cut in tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

In a special message, the president said in its own interest the United States requires a foreign economic program that will stimulate economic growth in the free world. He said:

"Our own self-interest requires such a program because (1) economic strength among our allies is essential to our security; (2) economic growth in underdeveloped areas is necessary to lessen international instability growing out of the vulnerability of such areas to communist penetration and subversion; and (3) an increasing volume of world production and trade will help assure our own economic growth and a rising standard of living."

Costa Rica Prepares For Invasion

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (Reuters)—All airports and strategic points in this tiny Central American republic were under heavy guard today in face of fears of invasion from across the Nicaraguan border.

The cabinet and general staff are in permanent session, and thousands of volunteer reservists have been mobilized to reinforce the 3,000 strong civil guard—recently retrained with $500,000 worth of U.S. machine guns, mortars and bazookas.

The Organization of American States meets in Washington today to debate Costa Rica's charges that about 600 "rebels" backed by Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, are poised on the border to attack her.

The Costa Rican president, Jose Figueres said on the eve of the meeting that he expects the 21-member body to send an investigating commission to both Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

DEMOCRACY VS DICTATORS
"It is part of the struggle between democracy and dictatorship," he said. "These constant attempts by Nicaragua to interfere with Costa Rican internal affairs have got to be ended once and for all."

Costa Rica charges that Somoza is deliberately trying to help the armed overthrow of the Costa Rican government, and that the plan is to land the rebels by air in remote parts of Costa Rica to make the invasion appear a local uprising.

Lots o' folks w'd like t' trade goods with Eisenhower, but cert'nly not jobs.

2ND HOUSE COMMITTEE TO PROBE STOCK MARKET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators said today the steep upward spiral in United States stock markets will be investigated by the Senate House economic committee.

Sensors John Sparkman (Dem.-Ala.), and Ralph Flanders (Rep.-Vt.), said in separate interviews that the boom in security prices calls for a study to determine if government fiscal policies and legislation are adequate.

Senator William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.), has already said he will ask the Senate banking committee to conduct a study of the market boom.

The New York market today posted further gains, its second successive rally from the sharp decline registered in the middle of last week.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were common on the New York board today and some issues advanced as much as 5 points. The Toronto market which follows much the same pattern as New York, also showed an upward trend.

'Vicious' Labor Act Scored by Unionists

CCL Provincial Organization
Warned of 'Dangerous' Situation

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Federation of Labor wound up its 11th annual two-day convention here Sunday with a stinging attack on the government's new Labor Relations Act.

The act was described as the "most vicious piece of labor legislation in North America" as delegates were urged to get out and campaign for changes in it.

The Social Credit government was charged with "political trickery" and "inertia" in its policies toward labor and the unemployment problem.

Earlier, the delegates were told the political situation in B.C. is "dangerous" and that labor must be "on the alert" in dealings with government and management.

More than 120 delegates, representing 50,000 Canadian Congress of Labor members in B.C., met to formulate their legislative program for 1955.

In their report to the convention, federation officers said "the political situation in B.C. is dangerous. We have a political party in power which cries political parties, then proceeds to commit offences that bring politics into disrepute."

"The people can have no confidence in a government," the report added, "when top government officials release statements and then a few days later... deny the statements issued by their colleagues."

Hillary May Join Antarctic Expedition

LONDON (UP)—Britain disclosed plans today to send a 20-man expedition to the Antarctic probably during the summer of 1956 to make the first surface crossing of that bleak land at the bottom of the earth.

Military sources said Sir Edmund Hillary, the New Zealand man who was the first white man ever to scale Mount Everest, may be invited to join the expedition.

LONDON (Reuters)—Results of today's Football Association Cup third round replays: Aston Villa 4, Brighton 2. Port Vale 3, West Ham U. 1. In the fourth round Jan. 29 Aston Villa now will be away to Doncaster Rovers and Port Vale will meet first division Tottenham Hotspurs at Tottenham.

Saanich Youth Killed When Car Hits Tree

A Saanich youth died instantly in one of two fatal car accidents on Vancouver Island over the week-end.

JAMES MATTHEW LAMONT, 20, of 545 Agnes, was killed in the crash of a car at the intersection of Jedburgh Road and the old Island Highway in View Royal early Sunday.

ORVILLE R. AKENHEAD, a Nanaimo taxi driver, died when his cab plunged 170 feet into a ravine on a logging road near Bear Creek in the Shawnigan district Sunday night.

Lamont was the first victim of a fatal car accident this year in the Greater Victoria area.

Inquest into his death has been set for Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel.

RUNS INTO TREE

Colwood RCMP worked for about 20 minutes to free the body from tangled wreckage.

They said Lamont was alone in his car when it failed to negotiate a "fairly sharp" turn on the highway, went into a ditch and crashed into a tree.

The car then flipped over on the driver's side and slid along the highway.

Police said the car traveled a "considerable" distance after leaving the highway.

The car, a 1938 Plymouth, was a total wreck. Roads were said to be wet, but it was not raining at the time of the accident.

Lamont had been working in Prince George and had returned home about three months ago.

He was single and living at home, police said. He worked as a carpenter. Funeral will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at Chaplin's. Burial will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

He is survived by his father, Matthew, and his mother, Reta, at home; one brother, David, in Morocco; five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Everett, Welford, Ontario; Mrs. Francis Hutton, Hamilton; Mrs. Irene Cannell, Victoria; Miss Constance Lamont and Miss Carol Lamont at home.

170-FOOT PLUNGE

In the second fatality, taxi-man Akenhead was reported to have taken a fare to a B.C. Forest Products Ltd. woods camp on Bear Creek.

He was returning on the logging company's private road-way to Shawnigan Lake when he crashed through a guard-railing on a trestle.

The cab plunged 170 feet to the bottom of the ravine. An inquest was scheduled at Duncan at 5 p.m. today. It was expected the inquiry would be adjourned until Wednesday after the body had been identified by relatives from Nanaimo.

Akenhead, 29-year-old married man, who resided at 939 Oakley Street, Nanaimo, was employed by Eagle Taxi. His body is at First Funeral Chapel at Duncan.

By British United Press

Three men were killed instantly when a truck careened off the Trans-Canada Highway near Golden as British Columbia counted up eight violent deaths during the week-end.

Six of the deaths arose from traffic accidents and there were two gasings. Segard T. Johnson, 60; Ernie John Albertson, 30, and an unidentified man, all of Vancouver, were killed Sunday when their half-ton truck went off the Big Bend highway near Golden and fell 300 feet into the canyon.

Jack Diamond, 73, Vancouver, died in a hospital during the week-end from injuries received in a traffic accident Christmas Day. He was listed as Vancouver's 33rd traffic fatality of 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bescott, both 65, of Vancouver, were found dead in their home Sunday when their daughter and son-in-law came to visit them. They died of gas poisoning after apparently forgetting to turn off a gas jet when retiring Saturday night.

Domestic Atom Plants Near, Howe Says

OTTAWA (BUP)—Work on atomic power plants for domestic use may start soon, Trade Minister C. D. Howe indicated in the Commons today.

He said a number of firms had been invited to submit proposals for a joint power development with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. The proposals are due early in February, Howe said.

He made the statement in reply to a question by George Hees (PC, Toronto-Broadview), who commented on plans announced by the United States government to permit private development of atomic power for civilian use.

U.S. ACTION

In Washington the Atomic Energy Commission announced two historic actions today to hasten economic nuclear power production by private industry.

(In one action the AEC: (1) Set up a schedule of charges it will make for atomic fuels and other materials it is authorized by the new law to lease or sell to private firms for peace-time power production.

(2) Established the "fair prices" it will pay for plutonium and uranium-233—both of them atomic fuels or explosives—produced in any atom power plants built by private industry.

(In the other action, also an atomic first, the AEC approved a government-assisted "power demonstration reactor program" for private industry. Experimental in purpose, it is aimed at speeding "the time when nuclear power will become economically competitive."

(Some 18 private industrial groups have made feasibility studies of various kinds of atomic power plants under contract with the AEC. So far, however, none of them has undertaken actually to build and operate such a plant of its own.)

2 Die, 40 Hurt As Bomb Hurdled Into Movie Crowd

ANCONA, Italy (Reuters)—An unidentified man tossed a hand grenade into a movie audience here Sunday night, killing two women and injuring 40 other persons, some seriously.

The man then fired three revolver shots into one of the gallery walls and escaped amid the uproar.

Premier Defends Policy Of Guaranteeing PGE Debt

From CP and BUP Dispatches

VANCOUVER — Premier W. A. C. Bennett defended the B.C. government's policy of provincial guarantee of PGE debt before the Vancouver Board of Trade and its sales and advertising bureau today.

"Against criticisms that the government was transferring provincially guaranteed debt to the PGE, school boards, and to the Toll Highways and Bridge Authority, the premier replied this was a customary financing method for 'pioneer' projects such as the PGE, and was most sound in the other cases."

The premier turned on

The premier said it was "clearly indicated" at the first legislative session under the present administration that "certain types of borrowings might be necessary with respect to long-term capital projects to expedite the development of the province."

Mr. Bennett, commenting on the Pacific Great Eastern Rail-

Premier Bennett predicted that there is every reason confidently to expect that upon completion of extensions from Squamish to Vancouver, the PGE's operations "will so increase, and their cost so decrease, that even without the northern potential, revenues will not only carry the cost of this extension, including interest charges on new bonds, but yield a substantial net surplus."

IN PARLIAMENT

32 Resolutions By Private MPs

By Canadian Press

The new session of Parliament has brought a flood of private members' resolutions to the Commons order paper. They run the gamut from beef to bridges and education to exhaust fumes.

Thirty-two private member resolutions, all urging some government action, crowded the Commons' first order paper. More will follow as the session progresses.

Some call for writing human rights and freedoms into the law. Others ask scholarships for University students, a Dominion-provincial conference on conservation and steps to extend Canadian scientific research.

Many of the private resolutions will never be debated. Only two days a week are given to their consideration and the government later cuts down this time to give priority to its own business.

Usually not more than half of the private member resolutions are considered. The others die on the order paper when the session ends.

Commons approval of such resolutions does not necessarily commit the government to act. They are an opportunity for members to express their views.

BILL OF RIGHTS

The call for a bill of human rights and freedoms came from CCF leader Coldwell, John Diefenbaker (PC, Prince Albert) and David Croll (L, Toronto Spadina). Mr. Coldwell asks that a declaration of human rights be inserted in Canada's constitution, the British North America Act.

John Charlton (PC-Brant-Haldimand) wants steps taken to render non-poisonous the exhaust fumes of all gasoline and diesel vehicles, railway engines and stationary engines. It would help protect the health of the nation, he says.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) wants it made possible to deduct all medical expenses from taxable income. Lionel Bertrand (L-Terrebonne) asks removal of the means test for blind pensioners and Hazan Argue (CCF-Assiniboia) wants family allowances increased. No amount is specified.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) calls for a Dominion-provincial conference to establish a national policy on soil, forest and water conservation. J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton West) urges a special house committee to investigate ways to promote and accelerate scientific research.

Leon Crestohl (L-Montreal Cartier) wants university tuition fees made exempt from income tax while A. H. Hollingworth (L-York Centre) asks consideration of national university scholarships and bursaries to help worthy students.

FFRA EXPANSION

An increase in payments to farmers under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act and its expansion to cover all agricultural areas in the four western provinces is requested by A. M. Campbell (CCF-The Battlefords).

BCE Crews Lay Cable For CKDA

An underwater power cable taking electricity from Ten Mile Point across Baynes Channel to Chatham Island is being laid today by B.C. Electric line crews, directed by J. W. Casey, line superintendent.

Purpose of the cable is to serve CKDA radio transmitters on Chatham.

Nearly two miles of custom-built marine cable are being eased onto the ocean floor from a giant reel with friction brake aboard an Island Tug & Barge scow.

Soundings of the channel were made earlier to select a route where the cable will anchor itself firmly in sand and shale on the sea bottom away from rocky ledges.

While most of the 9,000 feet of cable is being reeled from the drum, crews are using small boats to take it ashore at the starting point and again at the Chatham end where "whip" makes the operation a tricky one.

The cable, three inches in diameter, carries four conductors. Two are for delivery of electricity; the other pair for a communications circuit.

Power to Chatham Island will be delivered at 2,300 volts, being stepped down from the 12,000-volt system at the foot of McNally Road.

As an interim arrangement pending laying of the underwater line, the radio station has used a gas-driven generator as its power source.

66 Red Planes Strike Blow At Tachens

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)

At least 66 Chinese Communist planes bombed the strategic Tachen Islands today in the Reds' biggest air raid against Chinese Nationalist territory. The Defense Ministry said two of the Russian-built aircraft were shot down.

The ministry said more than 300 bombs were dropped by the raiders. Most of the bombs fell into the sea, the ministry said.

100 SORTIES
In addition to two planes shot down, the ministry said two others were heavily damaged by anti-aircraft fire from the islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

The Reds flew more than 100 sorties, with the first attacks coming in four waves. The ministry made no mention of Nationalist fighter opposition.

A considerable number of civilian casualties was reported. The ministry said more than 10 houses were destroyed.

Peller Interests To Publish Evening Paper in Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Andrew Peller, publisher of the morning Hamilton Daily News, announced Saturday he will also publish an evening newspaper starting Jan. 31.

Mr. Peller, president of Peller Publishing Ltd., said the new paper will be called the Evening Daily News. The city's other daily is the Hamilton Spectator, an evening paper.

The Hamilton Daily News was first published last Sept. 27 and replaced the thrice-weekly Hamilton News. Both newspapers will be published at the Daily News' building in downtown Hamilton.

Third Murder Trial Likely

Royal City Jury 'Hopelessly Deadlocked' in Quesnel Case

NEW WESTMINSTER — Criminal worker Lawrence Vincent faces a third trial for the strangulation murder of Donna Lee Corbett, 12, of Quesnel in September, 1953.

Official sources said last night it was possible but unlikely that Attorney-General Robert Bonner would order a stay of proceedings and that there was a strong probability of a new trial.

Saturday the all-male jury deciding Vincent's fate returned to the courtroom after deliberating four hours and reported it was "hopelessly deadlocked."

The jury but ordered the 28-year-old accused and all witnesses to "remain until the pleasure of the court is known."

Vincent was convicted of the murder last year but won a retrial and change of venue when his case was taken to the B.C. Court of Appeal.

The jury was out for four hours and 20 minutes. It went out at 12:15 p.m. after hearing a two-hour charge by Mr. Justice McInnes.

The jury foreman told the tense courtroom that the 12-man panel had been unable to reach a verdict and the court adjourned until this morning with Vincent kept in custody over the weekend.

Four defense witnesses had testified they saw the girl alive several hours after the Crown contended she had been slain by Vincent.

In his one hour and 45-minute charge to the jury, Justice McInnes said they would have to acquit the accused "if you believe any one" of the witnesses.

The four witnesses, Loretta Lust, Donna Eccles, Harold Laviolette and Tom Woollett, all said they saw the Corbett girl at the circus grounds in the evening of the day in which the crown alleged she was slain. The Crown had sought to standard of living among our own people."

In the first of a series of special messages to the Democratic 48th Congress, the president specifically renewed the request he made to last year's Republican Congress—without success—for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act with new tariff-cutting power.

As other steps in the foreign economic field, Eisenhower also recommended:

1. Customs simplification. He asked that Congress take action further streamlining customs administration and procedure which, Eisenhower said, still causes "unwarranted delays" and hampers commerce despite passage of the Customs Simplification Act last year.

2. Private investment abroad. He recommended a cut of 14 per cent in the tax rate paid by corporations on income earned abroad, and asked Congress to defer the tax on income of foreign branches until the funds are removed from the country where earned; and to study the further use of tax treaties by recognizing tax concessions made to foreign capital by other countries.

WANTS FAIR RETURN

In this connection, Eisenhower said American capital will go abroad only when it can expect "to bring home its fair reward." He declared:

"This can only be accomplished in the last analysis by our willingness to purchase more goods and services from abroad in order to provide the dollars for those growing remittances."

3. Technical co-operation. He said this country should carry forward its technical assistance programs, concerned with "know-how rather than large funds."

4. General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. The United States and 33 other countries now are reviewing the GATT agreement for lowering of trade barriers, Eisenhower said, to simplify its terms. When the proposed revisions were complete, the results would be sent to Congress for approval.

5. International travel. To encourage travel abroad by Americans, an important source of dollars for many countries, Eisenhower asked Congress to increase the duty-free allowances for tourists from $500 to $1,000.

As to tariffs, the president declared Congress can "add immeasurably to the security and well-being of the United States."

and the rest of the free world" by giving him authority to:

1. Negotiate tariff reductions not exceeding five per cent annually for three years on selected products.

2. Cut any rates which exceed 50 per cent down to that level over the three-year period.

3. Reduce by not more than one-half, in three years, the tariffs on goods which are not now being imported or which now are being imported "only in negligible quantities."

SUBJECT TO PERIL CLAUSE

The president asked this authority "subject to the present peril and escape clause provisions." Under these provisions, U.S. industries greatly damaged by tariff cuts can seek an upward revision of the cuts.

Eisenhower did not mention amendment of the "Buy American" laws, which oblige foreign companies to bid considerably lower than American firms to get government contracts.

He called for congressional approval of U.S. membership in the proposed $100,000,000 International Finance Corporation, under the World Bank.

This corporation would be set up to increase private investment in Latin American and other less developed nations by making loans without government guarantee of repayment.

MUST BE GRADUAL
Eisenhower said the dismantling of trade barriers must be mutual and gradual.

"Radical or sudden tariff reductions would not be to the interest of the United States and would not accomplish the goal we seek," he said.

Brazil Train Wreck Kills 50, Hurts 120

ARACAJU, Brazil (Reuters)—Doctors and nurses performed scores of emergency operations in tents on a barren hillside near here today after one of the worst train disasters in Brazilian history.

Around them as they worked lay the scattered wreckage of a passenger train which plunged off a steep slope late Sunday.

Latest estimates of casualties were about 50 killed and 120 injured.

Peiping Radio Hints PW Mission a Failure

Voice of Red China Belligerent As Secretary, Chou End Talks

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio heralded the last day of scheduled talks between United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and Red China's Premier Chou En-lai with one of its bitterest blasts against the United States.

The propaganda broadcast heard here appeared to bode little good for Hammarskjöld's long journey to talk over the release of 11 American airmen captured during the Korean war and charged with spying by the Chinese Communists.

In one of its longest tirades, the radio accused the United States of abandoning attempts to solve world problems peacefully and openly taking the road to war.

"The danger of war is increasing," Peiping said. It claimed the U.S. "is pursuing its plans for war" in both Europe and the Far East, "stepping up the rearmament of Japan and rigging up a North-east Asia aggressive alliance."

The New York Times, in a dispatch from New Delhi, said India has made clear to Peiping she favors an agreement leading to quick release of the airmen. The dispatch, by Times correspondent A. M. Rosenthal, quoted qualified sources as saying Indian authorities have indicated it would be politically wise to make such a settlement whether Peiping's spy charges are justified or not.

AVOID PUBLICITY

The dispatch said the Indians have avoided publicizing this stand, feeling their efforts to mediate might be hampered if Red China got the idea the Nehru government was trying to put on pressure. It added that it was believed some reports have been received from Peiping, but that the general impression in New Delhi was that the Chinese had not revealed what they intend to do about the fliers.

A government spokesman in New Delhi said today that Prime Minister Nehru has sent no word to Chou since Hammarskjöld stopped here on his way to Peiping. The spokesman added there was no change in India's position regarding the fliers, which "always has been and still is that India wishes to eliminate anything causing world tension."

The Rescue of GATT

RETURNING RECENTLY FROM Geneva, Mr. Howe said he could not rule out the possibility that the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade might collapse during the present negotiations. Returning from a hurried visit to Washington, however, he says "there will be a General Agreement... but it will be a tough row to hoe."

It is tough because the United States' farm policies cut straight across the basic principles of GATT. Section 22 of the U.S. Agricultural Adjustments Act compels import restrictions on all products of a sort subsidized by the state.

That is to say, when the state buys up huge quantities of farm stuffs to assist the farmer, as it is doing now, it must not allow embarrassing imports of similar products. But GATT specifically forbids its signatories to impose such sudden barriers to trade. Its whole purpose, indeed, is to fix tariffs and other restrictions at agreed levels and to keep them there at all times.

Apparently at the present Geneva conference the United States refused to abandon its farm policy. Even if he wanted to, Mr. Eisenhower probably could not persuade the Congress to change the existing law.

It should be remembered that the United States Government signed GATT but it has never been submitted to the Congress. Mr. Eisenhower proposes to submit it to the Congress in the immediate future and there it must run the gauntlet of all the protectionists, agricultural and industrial. Naturally he wants a contract which will be approved, for a rejection would be a disaster to his whole policy of expanded trade and to all trading nations.

This clash between GATT and the American farm law was considered so important that three members of the Canadian Government hurried to Washington and talked it over with the American Government. In this mission Canada acted not for itself alone, but unofficially for many other signatories of GATT. The European nations no doubt assumed that Canadians could negotiate with their close friends and neighbors in the United States more successfully than any other foreigners.

The Canadian ministers' success seemed to be limited, though no formal report on the Washington mission has yet been made. The American Government probably is powerless to alter the farm policy laid down by the Congress, but such policies are seldom absolute. They can usually be stretched in actual administration. The real question is how far the United States will go in restricting farm imports at times of surplus and how much unexpected damage it will do to foreign traders.

Even assuming that it cannot entirely satisfy its foreign friends on this score it would be folly of the worst sort to destroy GATT merely because one pretty narrow phase of it is sometimes violated in detail. Some foreigners seem to imagine that the United States has committed wholesale violations when, as a matter of fact, its breaches of contract have been extremely minor in terms of the world's trade and have been enforced under known American law.

Moreover, the Eisenhower Government is prepared to go far beyond GATT and undertake a general downward revision of the tariff, and will fight for this policy in the Congress. At such a moment the signatories of GATT should hold firmly to the gains already made, even if the letter of the agreement is sometimes violated by the United States—and its spirit, incidentally, by some European countries.

If GATT were destroyed now in a fit of pique, Mr. Eisenhower's policy, which means so much to the world and most of all to Canada, would be destroyed also.

Coal to Newcastle

AN OBSCURE ITEM IN THE newspapers a few days ago announced a startling fact. Britain is going to buy American coal and pay for it in sterling.

What the United States will do with sterling and various other foreign currencies which it is now accumulating out of similar bargains remains to be seen. But one thing is already clear—for all its remarkable recovery in the last few years the British economy still suffers from a fundamental and intractable weakness when it must import expensive American coal.

Britain is unique among the great powers of the world in owning no large natural resource except coal. Mainly on coal the Industrial Revolution and British industrial power were built. The first priority of any sound British economic policy, therefore, is to exploit the island's rich coal seams to the limit.

This successive British Government has tried to do since the war. They have mechanized the mines. They have tried to attract miners into them. They have nationalized the coal industry and given it the socialist blessing of government management. Yet a nation which used to supply its own coal requirements and export coal as well, is now importing it from the United States.

There is no sound business reason for this trade. If American coal were cheaper than British, why of course its importation would be wise and thrifty. In fact, American coal is relatively high-priced. When the British Government pays high for it and then sells it to the consumer at British prices, the state is actually subsidizing the consumer. The national economy is carrying the load which it has no business to be carrying, which it need not carry if it would mine its own coal.

Until now American coal imports represented a heavy cost to the British treasury in precious American dollars. Now that is avoided because the United States is willing to accept payment in sterling which it does not want and does not know how to use—in effect, a loan or gift.

If this is a convenient arrangement for Britain it cannot disguise the failure of nationalization as a cure for the sick British coal industry. To say that conditions are no worse and may be better than under private enterprise is no answer. The simple truth is that the British economy, though booming on the surface, is still fundamentally weak and the boom helps, oddly enough, to weaken it by discouraging any real effort to cure the underlying malady.

The United States' motives in accepting sterling for its coal probably are mixed. It is anxious to help a good friend by a scheme in effect tending the Marshall Plan on a limited scale. It is also anxious to help its own coal industry, at the expense of its own taxpayers. Finally, by insisting that half the export coal must be carried in its own ships, the United States is helping its own shipping industry.

If all this is desirable as a temporary measure it only disguises distortions in both the British and the American economies and patches them up thinly by uneconomic subsidies.

The trouble with temporary remedies is that they have a habit of becoming permanent.

Highway Bicycle Menace

GREATER VICTORIA'S FIRST highway death of the new year occurred at View Royal early Sunday morning. The fatal accident marred the excellent record established by drivers in this community from the Christmas period onward.

But if the record had been better than average, its favorable appearance had not depended on the behavior of young bicycle riders. They continue to invite disaster and to break the law by riding more than two abreast on roadways not wide enough to permit that practice.

Recently Shelbourne Street has come in for particular notice. Opening of Lansdowne Junior High School has greatly increased the students' use of that road. That has brought a much larger number of cyclists onto the street and from school. And too many of those youngsters fail to recognize the hazard they are creating.

When they spread three or more abreast across their portion of the highway, they force overtaking cars to swing to the wrong side of the road. Motorists traveling on the left inevitably create danger for other drivers approaching. By good fortune no serious accident has yet occurred. There is no guarantee this happy record will continue.

What applies to Shelbourne applies in modified measure to innumerable other heavily traveled streets, including the Island Highway. Cyclists in groups should observe the law, and go a step further by showing extra caution for two good reasons. In the first place, if they ride properly they have a better chance of living longer. In the second, they are the people who will become car drivers in a few years.

Highway courtesy learned on a bicycle can influence favorably their habits when they graduate to a car's steering wheel.

On Our Way at Last

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

SOMEbody was kind enough to think of a new name for my house the other day. The name is Little Bedlam. And very nice, too. Suitable for any house full of small kids, and if their father is occasionally mistaken for an eccentric, so much the better. With (in my case at least) "mistaken" the operative word.

Nothing eccentric about old Brocky. I mean, nothing you couldn't fix with a little tyranny. But the trouble is, our house has had too many names already, so that none of them has stuck. Only last month or so, somebody christened it The Parrot, which means a litter of piglets; and that, too, was a name highly apt, unusual, and charming. And at one time, for a few days, the place was called London Bridge, for obvious reasons. Yet although the place is still falling down nicely, the name has gone.

A BROTHER of mine had much better luck with the name of his house. And yet it was named for reasons that wouldn't strike the beholder at all. He called the place Little Belsen. Only a lunatic would choose a house with that name, you might imagine. But my brother had excellent reasons, once you know them. There had been staying with him an American friend who disliked gardening but who wanted to be useful. This guest pottered round edges of the lawn for a few moments, upon (I think) one solitary occasion. He hacked a few bays and notches into edges that had once been straight, and was then urged to have a nice rest.

He accepted the deck-chair so hurriedly offered him, and from it he gave a long speech about how hard he had been made to work. It wasn't long before he was referring to my brother's house as "this damned slave-camp." And believing it, too. And hence the name Little Belsen.

SOUNDS FAMILIAR
I WAS eavesdropping on a couple of little girls who were filling each other with misinformation about the court of that obscure British chieftain, Arthur. "And at his court there were these two knights, see, Sir Ocelot and Sir Gallagher," said one little girl. It sounded familiar enough. But surely she meant Sir Gallager and Sir Shean?

P.R. STUFF
AS my old friend Constant Reader discovered some time ago, I think Public Relations Work is a trade that someone tends to over-emphasize its own importance, as well as the importance of its employers who pay it to over-emphasize them. A good P.R. man soon gets into the swing of telling you how good he is himself, as well as how good his bosses are. You may remember now the R.A.F. was somewhat discourteously called the Royal Advertising Force during the late contest, because its P.R. work was sometimes a little too public and not quite relative enough, so to speak.

But I have always thought its P.R. men were so modest (except one I could tell you about), they didn't like boasting about themselves, and as a result, they boasted only about the R.A.F. An unusual form of self-expression for a P.R. man. In the ordinary way in the peace time world, your P.R. man works 24 hours a day, divided thus: he spends 8 hours telling you how important his bosses are, 8 telling you how important he is himself, and 8 telling you the world would be a perfect place if it only had more public relations.

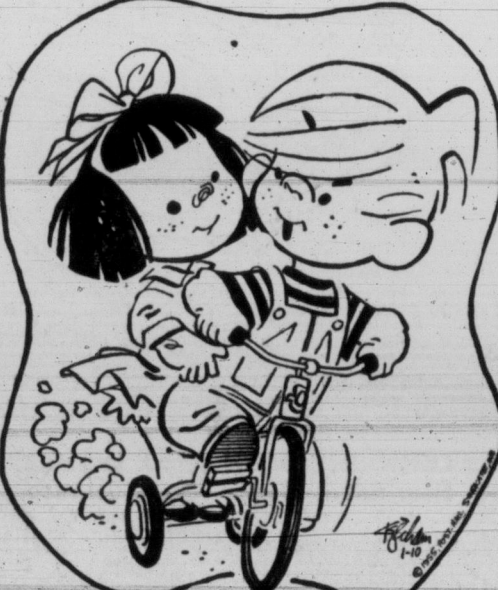

HE now uses this phrase "public relations" to mean almost anything. Charles the First wasn't the victim of anything except bad public relations. And that goes for Cromwell, too. Now I can willingly accept one of those theories (if only to keep people quiet). But I can hardly accept both. Yes, I know all about the essence of true history, as of true tragedy, being a struggle between right and right, not between right and wrong, and I wish more teachers of history agreed with this. At the same time, I don't see how Charles and the businessman could have beaten the other if both of them had hired absolutely perfect P.R. men. I think one side would have lost anyhow. This is perverse of me, but there it is.

"Public relations" can now mean anything from straight advertising to theology and logic and philosophy and I don't know what and all... including Shakespeare and the musical glasses.

I AM always deeply interested in seeing what it means to me so much the creation of a reputation (bogus or deserved) as the reputation itself. So that it would be possible to speak of "seeking the bubble public relations even in the cannon's mouth." Or "good public relations are better than precious ointment." Or again, "who steals my purse steals trash; but he who filches from me my public relations," etc. Or best of all:

"Public relations" public relations, public relations! O, I have lost my public relations! I have lost the immortal part of myself, and what remains is bestial." That is Cassio talking, you may remember, after Othello has sacked him on account of the frame-up. Cassio was not any too quick-witted. But what he said about public relations was true. Or is now, anyhow.

Moscow's Internal Division

By STEWART ALSOP from Washington

THE American and Soviet governments appear to have one thing, at least, in common. Both governments are internally divided about the direction their foreign policy should take, now that the basic decision to rearm Western Germany has at long last been made.

The evident suggestion that the Soviet government is divided on this question is as always fragmentary and inconclusive. But it is a good deal less so than usual.

When Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen returned to Moscow recently, he reported back that the sense of tension had measurably increased there in the few days since he had left. The British Ambassador, Sir William Hayter, who also returned to Moscow at about the same time, reported back to London precisely the same thing.

One obvious reason for this tension in Moscow was, of course, the French voting on the German rearmament issue. But another reason also appeared, when long editorials about the future of the Soviet policy were published just before Christmas in Pravda and Izvestia.

OPPOSITE LINES

Izvestia is the organ of the Soviet government, and is thus accounted the mouthpiece of Premier Georgi Malenkov. Pravda is the organ of the Soviet Communist party, and is thus accounted the mouthpiece of N. S. Krushchev, Secretary of the Party. The two papers took almost diametrically opposite lines.

Izvestia called for a continuation of essentially the present policy—increased emphasis on production of consumer goods, and a "co-existence" policy abroad. Pravda called, in effect, for a "hard" line abroad, and a return to all-out priority for heavy industrial production, which means arms production.

The next day, Pravda published another long editorial, and this time Pravda fell in line with Izvestia. By knowledgeable Russians as well as foreign observers, this episode was universally taken to mean that there had been a basic disagreement on policy as between Malenkov and Krushchev, and that this disagreement had been settled in Malenkov's favor.

The episode was further taken to mean that the Russian rulers wished to make known the existence of the disagreement. The purpose was, presumably, partly to remind the West that the Soviets could adopt a tougher line if they wanted to. But another purpose certainly was to give Krushchev, as it were, his day in court, and to remind the Russian people that no one had inherited all the powers of the dead Stalin. It is quite genuinely true, in the view of Bohlen and all other foreign observers, that there is still no single absolute dictator in post-Stalin Russia. Moreover, the extent to which the Soviet rulers—though notably not the ruled—feel free to disagree with each other is remarkable.

For example, there was a recent meeting between certain "neutrals" and a number of the Russian leaders, including Malenkov, Krushchev, and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. Malenkov and Krushchev engaged in a lot of free-wheeling about Soviet policy. Molotov quite obviously felt that his special province was being invaded by amateurs, and made no attempt to conceal his irritation from the foreigners. The meeting very nearly became a sort of three-cornered argument between the Russians.

There is a good deal to suggest, in short, that a "great debate" of sorts is in progress within the Soviet government. No one, of course, believes that the essential objectives of the Soviet regime have changed. But it is natural that the Soviet rulers should debate whether the "soft" policy which achieved a triumph in Asia and almost achieved a greater triumph in Europe, has not about played itself out, now that the French have at last agreed to the rearmament of West Germany.

INDECISION?

Malenkov's recent equivocal remarks about the desirability of a four-power "meeting at the summit" further suggests that the issue has not yet been fully decided. The Soviet rulers, apparently, simply have not made up their minds whether such a meeting would serve Soviet purposes, since it is now seemingly impossible further to delay German rearmament.

A great debate is also, of course, in progress within the American government. This debate also concerns whether it is worth trying to negotiate with the Soviets—now that the German rearmament issue is presumably settled; and if so whether this is the time to try it. On one side are those who believe that the Soviets at least share the West's interests in avoiding mutual incineration; and that it is worth trying to agree on a set of ground rules to this end. At least to some extent, President Eisenhower inclines to this view—as does British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill.

On the other side are those who have strong doubts about the value of any negotiation with the Russians, except on the most limited and specific issues. Secretary of State Dulles entertains these doubts—and British Foreign Secretary Eden shares them. Thus a kind of global great debate is going on, in Washington, in Moscow, in London. No doubt it will be settled one way or another before this year ends.

CORKING GOOD WISHES

Here's wishing you the compliments of the season from the world's most famous tree.

I hear that England is to be invaded!

Yes, by thousands of Canadians in 1955 paying their annual visit to England and, fortunately for us, leaving behind a few much needed dollars.

Perhaps a few of your readers may be included in the invasion, in which case tell them to be sure to visit the Wishing Cork Tree if they are anxious for some particular event to take place.

DEFENDING MCCARTHY

D. C. O'Connell, in his letter of January 4th, presumes to condemn Senator McCarthy, believing that the Senator has accused various people without having sufficient evidence. Many students of politics believe that Senator McCarthy was not given a fair trial. It is most surprising to find an O'Connell who believes in tolerance towards everyone except McCarthy. In times such as these the McCarthy and O'Connells should stand together.

Many keen students of politics in the U.S.A. have supported Senator McCarthy in his struggle against subversives. Mr. O'Connell, a newcomer to Canada, should refrain from criticism of our good American neighbours until he has a better understanding of American affairs.

The Most Reverend Harold E. Sexton, in a recent press release, has this to say about subversives:

"While it is the function of the State to protect good order and peace from all subversive movements, it is the special duty of the Church to oppose the challenge of Marxian Communism by sound teaching and example of a better way."

Victorians may have their faults, but they resent it when a man comes to the city and immediately begins complaining that Victoria is less tolerant and less democratic than England.

If Mr. O'Connell is living in comfort in Victoria today, is it not because of the goodness and generosity of the people of Victoria, rather than the people of England? Most immigrants to Canada are quite happy. Those who are unhappy here need not remain; and if they have a passion for tolerance and justice, let them practice it by sound teaching and example of a better way.

60 MILLION YEARS AGO

May I be permitted to supply a trifling bit of the evidence offered for in the letter of Mr. S. A. Whitfield in your issue of Jan. 6 in which he asks for proof of organic phenomena prior to 9,000 years ago.

If Mr. Whitfield will study the findings of science with regard to the known life history of the coral insect builders responsible for the Great Barrier reef around much of Australia, and for the thousands of coral islands and other reefs he will find that these insects were at work on their ages-old monuments in what is known as the Cenozoic era or as much as 60,000,000 years ago. He will also find that before the coral insects could live there had to be lesser organic life forms to supply food to the coral creatures, and this in turn depended upon some still lower life forms to serve as food for the food supply of the coral builders.

Thus we see that organic phenomena, living organic forms have existed for such untold ages that science knows of no means of telling in years or even in periods the length of time that has elapsed since the earlier single cell protoplasm form of life first emerged.

No Power to Uninvent

New York Times

IT is perhaps four thousand years since the first dream of a waterway connecting the Mediterranean and the Red Sea. It is more than eighty-five years since the modern Suez Canal, offspring of the impassioned and ultimately unfortunate de Lesseps, was opened to traffic.

One might imagine that in this day of the airplane, railroad and automobile a canal might not be as important as it used to be. But Suez, saving more than five thousand miles for any ship passing from the Atlantic to the Indian Ocean, is essential to the world's seaborne commerce.

When an unhappy pilot, who will perhaps not be doing piloting any more, ran the tanker World Peace into the old swing bridge at Firdan on the last day of the year, the resulting crash was literally heard round the world. The old swing bridge was not highly valuable as a bridge—it was, indeed, to be dismantled, leaving the new bridge, on the south, nearer Ismailia, to carry the cross-canal load. But the old bridge, with the World Peace firmly wedged into it, sufficed to undo the ancient dream of the Pharos and the later dream of de Lesseps—in effect, it made Africa contiguous with Asia.

The lesson we are supposed to learn from this episode is, no doubt, that a facility we build—a canal, a highway, an air route—cannot easily be unbuilt, and an invention cannot easily be uninvented. If the Suez Canal had been impossible we would have done without it. If the famous Einstein equation had contained an error we would have struggled along, as did our ancestors, without an atomic bomb.

But we have a Suez Canal, in spite of German attempts to plug it during the Second World War and in spite of the misbehavior of the World Peace. Ships not accustomed to going around Africa won't do so; until the Canal was reopened they anchored off Port Said or in the harbor of Alexandria or in the Great Bitter Lake if they happened to be coming in from the south.

As for de Lesseps, sitting on some rosy cloud, he may well smile—this incident proves he was right. There did have to be a Suez Canal.

Borrowed Book

THIS time last week, when New Year's resolutions were still burning bright, I gathered up the borrowed books and went rushing round town returning them.

I was a fool. I can't think why I did it. But I hung on to "The Second Tree From the Corner" by E. B. White. The owner hasn't put his name in it, the trust- ing chap, and if I keep it long enough perhaps he'll forget what happened to it. Worth a try, anyway.

"The Second Tree From the Corner" is a "collected" book—of stories, poems, sketches, parodies and essays, all by E. B. White. I like this kind of book because there's time, I find, to read a piece between domestic chores, and then pop the book away until the next housewifely hiatus. (And, brother, can I ever make the hiatuses come thick and fast, with little pause between!) Some of the pieces I knew because they were published first in "The New Yorker." Others were quite new to me, but all of them are written with deceptive ease and simplicity.

My trouble is that I can't make up my mind which piece I enjoyed most, so I keep reading and re-reading. It's death on the housework. And on column-writing, too, for that matter. The poem, "A Classic Waits for Me" (with apologies to Walt Whitman) is too amusing to put down in the middle. (Every member of a Great Books Club should read it.)

The book review (in verse) of Louis Bromfield's "Malabar Farm" delighted me. It hits off Malabar Farm so well—the bustle and energy, the constant movement and soil improvement. "It's the nearest thing to a planned panic."

And, as a farmer's wife, I get an uneasy snicker out of this:

"Bromfield mows by any old light, The sun in the morning and the moon at night; Most tireless of all our writing men. He sometimes mows until half past ten."

I enjoyed the short essay—if one can call it that—about James Agee's criticism of "Oklahoma," especially the final sentence that starts, "When the intelligence says 'Nuts' and the blood says 'Goody'."

"The Future of Reading" made me think. "To us it would seem that even if only one person out of a hundred and fifty millions should continue as a reader, he would be the one worth saving, the nucleus around which to found a university." I would like to make some of our North American educators learn this essay by heart. But maybe they couldn't, since "Reading is the work of the alert mind."

Moreover, learning by heart is hard work, and nowadays, as we all know, hard work is likely to warp us for life.

No, I can't return this book. Give back the terrifying essay "The Morning of the Day They Did It?" Relinquish the chintzy little head—"Homemaking reared its chintzy little head"—? Not on your life.

I want to keep the sad, mad sanity of "The Door" beside me. I want to be able to chuckle in a sad kind of way about "The Dream of the North American Male." I particularly want to keep the piece that gives the book its title.

For this book, to my mind, is the expression of a genius, a gentle genius, speaking with quiet sanity from his corner of this mad, mad world.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Treatment of Hemorrhoids

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

MANY ask about the treatment of hemorrhoids or piles. Most of these persons have only occasional and mild symptoms, and hence had better leave well enough alone. Operations for piles do not always leave a comfortable anus. It helps much to keep the bowel movements fairly soft. A laxative that, during a flare-up of pain, can keep the movements soft is compound licorice powder. A half or one teaspoonful can be taken two or three times a week. An enema every day may work best, or the person can take each day a dose of emulsified mineral oil. Often, with some softening of the bowel movement, a sore hemorrhoid will quiet down.

Often, when symptoms come, they are due to the person's having forced out a large mass of hard constipated faeces which tore a hemorrhoid (a dilated vein) and caused the blood in it to clot. After that for 10 days the pile was inflamed and very painful. When a person with hemorrhoids is perhaps on a journey and goes without a bowel movement for two or three days, he will have a large nodular mass of hard faeces in his rectum, and then he must not force it out. Then an enema will help him to get the material out without the tearing of a hemorrhoid.

If I were to have an operation for hemorrhoids I would like to have it done by an expert proctologist, because often it is difficult to restore the anal ring that, for the rest of the person's life, it will be comfortable. I have seen many persons who, after an unskillful operation or several unskillful operations, were very unhappy, with an anal ring which was either too tight or too loose, or always a bit wet.

INJECTIONS DANGEROUS

Many persons ask about the injection treatment for hemorrhoids. With this, an irritant drug is injected with the hope that it will cause the sides of the pile, or dilated vein, to stick together. All I know is that at the Mayo Clinic where there are several very able rectal specialists, they never dare use this method. The trouble is that occasionally the injected tissues will slough. I remember well a beautiful young woman who came to Mayo's to have her piles injected. When told of the possible dangers of this treatment, she went away angry and had the injections made in her home city. Unfortunately, she must have been abnormally sensitive or allergic to the drug used, or it was not injected in the right place; anyway, a good-sized area of tissue around the woman's anus had sloughed out, leaving a big nasty ulcer. She came back to the clinic to have this treated and closed up.

I think most rectal specialists, when they must operate on piles, prefer to dissect out the big dilated veins; they tie them off, and then cut them out. Even then, a few persons continue to have trouble.

Some ask, "Is there any medicine taken by mouth that will cure piles?" I don't know of any. Others ask, "How about the use of rectal suppositories?" There are a number of these which can make a person more comfortable. "How about bleeding?" If hemorrhoids bleed much, the patient may be operated on; otherwise he can become anemic. Let us all remember that half of the patients with cancer of the rectum lose their life because, for months, they assume that the blood they are passing is coming from piles. Anyone who bleeds freely from the bowel should have frequent examinations made of the rectum to rule out the coming of a cancer. Blood only on the toilet paper is not so bad a danger signal.

Some will ask, "But, why did I get hemorrhoids?" I doubt if anyone knows why some persons get these dilated veins while others do not. Women, of course, have a tendency to get them in the later months of pregnancy.

TULAREMIA

Tularemia, or rabbit fever, commonly attacks rabbits and other small animals, such as mice, squirrels, and skunks. Every so often an epidemic will almost wipe out the rabbits in a certain region. At that time hunters must be particularly careful not to pick up a rabbit that they can catch. The reason they can catch him is that he is sick. Let a hunter put such a rabbit in the big pocket of his coat, and soon he is likely to be bitten by fleas or lice or ticks which are carrying the germs of the disease. Or the hunter and his family can get the disease from eating the poorly cooked meat of a sick rabbit. The wife can easily get the disease as she skins and cleans the infected rabbit. The germs will go through cracks in her skin.

Symptoms of trouble usually appear within from three to five days after the handling of the infected animal. There will come headache, chills and fever, with weakness, prostration, pain through the joints and the back, and marked sweats. A high fever may last for two or three weeks. Usually the person is so ill that it takes him two or three months to get well.

All of which means that the wise hunter will be mighty careful how he handles a rabbit he has shot. If he is wise, he will not have anything to do with a rabbit that is not very active on its feet.

WIFU Officials Suggest Agreement to Prevent Further Grid War

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The puzzling case of Montreal Alouettes' Sam Etcheverry signing two football contracts for 1955 and attempts made by National Football League teams to lure Americans back to its fold have rekindled the old fight between Canadian and American football.

Threats of a player war, court actions or threats of court actions have kept football talk alive the year around since 1951 when Canadian clubs went on a big spending spree to the U.S. for high-priced talent.

And, in many cases, the talent has returned to the U.S. to play in the NFL. The latest is Alex Webster, also of the Alouettes, who jumped the Canadian club last week to sign with New York Giants. Webster, from Kearney, N.J., scored a record-equaling 16 touchdowns in the Big Four Union in 1954 and the Montreal management isn't too happy about his jump.

The Etcheverry case is a real puzzle, and it could lead to another court action. He signed with Chicago Cardinals of the NFL last week and also with the Alouettes, and both teams are determined to get the 24-year-old quarter for 1955.

Managing director Walter Wolfner of the Cardinals said at Miami Beach, Fla., Saturday that Etcheverry "signed a contract with us and we expect him to play quarterback for the Cardinals this fall."

"It is a legal contract and we will defend it in court, if necessary,"

Etcheverry said at Albuquerque, N.M., Saturday that he signed a contract with the Cardinals but that he would play for the Alouettes this year. He earlier admitted that he had signed also with the Alouettes but he hasn't explained why he signed with the two clubs.

Two western Canada football officials, commenting on the latest developments, expressed the view that the NFL and Canadian leagues should get together.

"This thing is going to get into such a mess we'll have to come to some terms with the NFL," Don Mackenzie, president of British Columbia Lions, said at Vancouver.

Ken Montgomery, president of Edmonton Eskimos, said: "As far as Edmonton is concerned, we have been working for a year to bring the Canadian football clubs to some agreement on this question. With agreement in Canada, the NFL could be approached to get agreement that contracts on both sides of the border be honored."

"I can't see why business men who have entered the football field have thrown scruples and morals away they would otherwise honor in their own business."

The NFL's concerted drive to woo back imports from Canadian clubs also threatens to affect Ottawa Rough Riders.

An official of the Big Four club said Sunday Avatus Stone, the Riders' best import last year, has been informed Chicago Bears and Chicago Cardinals have acquired NFL rights to his services.

The 24-year-old halfback, a two-way player, has been told in a letter from the NFL that he may deal with either club for a 1955 contract, the official said.

However, Stone was quoted as saying that he plans to remain with Ottawa, where he now makes his home. Stone himself could not be reached.

Apparently, Stone was given until Feb. 4 to sign with the Bears, whose training camp he left to join the Riders in 1953, or the Cardinals.

Club officials of the Riders said also that Chas Caldwell, newly-appointed coach, has chosen John Idzik, former quarterback at the University of Maryland, as his assistant.

The latest developments, however, may be small stuff when Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four announce their import for 1955. The club, possibly the wealthiest in the country, has the money to sign the best in the NFL and it already has made offers to top American stars.

Argonauts, who announced a few weeks ago that none of their 1954 Americans would be back, have done considerable shopping in the U.S. for name players and their rebuilding plans may lead to drastic and unprecedented raids on NFL teams. The club has not announced yet the names of any players signed.

DRUB ROYALS; QUAKERS WIN Cougars Sight On Third Place

Victoria 6, New Westminster 1; Saskatoon 6, Calgary 0
Victoria Cougars again set their sights on third place in the Western Hockey League today with New Westminster Royals the immediate object of their attention.

Whipping the Royals, 6-1, Saturday night at New Westminster, the Cougars meet the Saskatoon Quakers twice this week and with a sweep of the home-and-home series, Thursday and Friday, could catch their mainland foes which they trail by four points.

Quakers open their coast visit at Vancouver Tuesday and play here Wednesday. Cougars travel to Westminister, Thursday, and meet the Royals here Friday.

However, before Cougars get the chance at the Royals they must throw off the threat of the Saskatoon Quakers who Saturday exhibited designs of making a belated move for recognition in the league scramble for playoff positions.

Quakers, now heading west for a four-game trip to the coast this week, blanked Calgary Stampeders, 2-0.

Cougar scoring was well divided, Doug Macauley, Andy Heberton, Gene Achtymichuk, Bill Davidson, Walter Clune and Doug Anderson getting singletons. For Heberton, it was his 29th goal of the season. Jim Zarie scored for New Westminster.

Cougars led 3-0 at the end of the first period and breezed home from there.

At Saskatoon, Ray Manson was the big noise, scoring three goals. Aggie Kukulowicz, Len Haley and Lou Fontinato got the others. It was the first shutout of the season for Bev Bentley, Saskatoon goalkeeper.

City Booters Lose; Still Factor in Race

St. Andrews 3, Victoria 1

Victoria City passed from the role of potential champions to possible spoilers in the first-half race of the Coast Soccer League at Athletic Park Saturday afternoon.

City went into the contest with a chance to capture first-half honors and came out of it because of a 3-1 defeat at the hands of St. Andrews, with only an opportunity of denying Vancouver Firefighters, whom they meet here next Saturday, the same privilege.

As a result of the contest, St. Andrews, North Shore United and Firefighters all retain a hope for the championship.

St. Andrews have three games remaining, North Shore two, and Firefighters one.

The key contest, obviously, is here on Saturday with Firefighters assured of nothing worse than a tie for the title if they gain a draw decision, and the title if they are victorious.

Saturday's match was a case of missed opportunities for City in the first half as the teams ended play tied at 1-1, and an alert St. Andrews club in the second 45 minutes.

Chummy Crabbe had two good chances for City, his second try, a header, bouncing off the cross bar. Then Ced Robb shot wide on another fine effort.

Scots opened scoring when centre-forward Jack Swan, who was to score all three goals, was put through the middle by Steve

KINS ROMP TO WIN IN MAINLAND VISIT

Vic-Van Isle Kins, the only senior A women's basketball club on the Island, went on a first-half scoring rampage in Vancouver Saturday night to hang up a top-sided 45-17 victory over the Sunset Memorial senior B club.

Kins threw in 14 points in the first quarter and 18 in the second for a 32-10 lead at the half. Coach Wally Yeamans benched his first-stringers in the second half and coasted to the victory.

Pat Mason led the local scorers with 10 points, all scored in the first half, and Chris Boyd was next with eight.

FIRST MAJOR PRO TRIUMPH

Littler Captures Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gene Littler, of Palm Springs, Calif., won the top money in the $32,500 Los Angeles Open golf tournament Sunday with a final round 69 and a 72-hole score of 276.

The 1953 U.S. amateur champion cut the tough field down to size in winning the $5,000 first prize. It was his first major triumph since he turned professional less than a year ago after whipping the pros in the San Diego Open.

Coming with a rush in the final stages as the other challengers fell by the wayside, Ted Kroll of Bethesda, Md., took second-place money of $2,780 with a final round 69 and a 72-hole score of 278.

Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, winner of the LA Open in 1941, finished third with a 72 for 279 and $2,100.

Littler started the final round two strokes back of the leader, Eric Monti of Los Angeles. Monti began to fold early and Gene soon took charge.

Louise Suggs won the $1,000 first prize in the women's section of the tournament in a sudden-death playoff with Beverly Hanson Saturday.

The two finished all even in the 54-hole tournament but Miss Suggs collected a par while Miss Hanson went one over on the first playoff hole.

Top scorer for England was Trevor Bailey with 53 runs in two hours and eight minutes.

Just before the close of play England was all-out for 242 in reply to the combined eleven's first-innings total of 221. The combined eleven scored nine without loss in their second innings, in one over before stumps.

The previous mark of eight innings 37 seconds was established three years ago by Soviet skater Mamonov, the broadcast said.

LONDON (AP)—Russian skater Boris Shilkofas bettered the world record for 5,000 metres with a time of seven minutes 45 seconds. Moscow radio said Sunday night.

What a difference one and a half hours makes to National Hockey League fans in New York.

For weeks they stayed away by the thousands from Madison Square Garden while their Rangers writhed in the worst slump of the 1954-55 season. A 6,000 or 7,000 crowd was considered good, particularly with the Blueshirts able to win only one game in their last 20 starts.

Somebody came up with the idea of starting New York home games at 7 p.m. instead of 8:30 p.m. The experiment started Sunday night and 13,607 customers sat in while Rangers were humiliated 7-1 by the league-leading Montreal Canadiens.

It was Rangers' second straight drubbing. They were lambasted 5-0 by the third-place Maple Leafs at Toronto Saturday night.

The New York attendance was the largest of the Rangers' campaign. But it wasn't the most sympathetic. The fans first booed and then stamped their feet and laughed as Rangers muffed chances around the nets, failing to get organized anywhere along the line.

The earlier starting time was brought in after the Ranger management polled the fans on the subject. Most said they wanted the earlier start.

In four other week end games:

Canadiens and the fourth-place Bruins battled to a 1-1 deadlock in Montreal while the second-place Detroit Red Wings edged the last-place Chicago Black Hawks 1-0 at Detroit Saturday. The Wings walloped Hawks 6-2 in St. Louis Sunday night as the Bruins and Leafs tied 1-1 in Boston.

Leafs, led by leftwinger Sid Smith's two goals, looked good Saturday against the inept Rangers and had little trouble helping to protect goaltender Harry Lumley's fifth shutout of the season.

Centre Bob Bailey and rightwingers Eric Nesterenko and Joe Klukay scored the other Toronto goals before 12,588 hometown fans.

Bernie Geoffroy, sensational 23-year-old rightwinger, and Jean Beliveau each scored twice to lead Montreal Sunday night.

Dollard St. Laurent, Eddie Marz and Jackie Leclair scored the other Montreal goals.

Kerr Tops City Medal Golf Play

The city's top golfers found Colwood's long fairways and back tees an unrelenting foe Sunday in the first monthly medal round of the second winter series.

With the exception of the home course's Laurie Kerr, competitors saw their scores soar. Kerr combined a pair of 36's for a 72 and the low gross honors. Second was George Andrews, of Colwood, with 74.

Paul Painter was next with 75 and Bob Morrison took fourth with 76.

Bob Fleming, leader in the first series, had a 41 on the front nine and finished with a 78, while Frank Scroggs took an 80 and Bill McCall an 82.

Andrews topped the low net department, with Harold Lineham runner-up.

ALS FEARFUL, ORDER SIGNING OF IMPORTS

MONTREAL (CP)—The new owners of Montreal Alouettes, fearful of losing more of their stars to National Football League teams, have authorized coach Doug Walker to sign his holdover imports without delay, a club spokesman said Sunday night.

Walker has been told to get contracts signed by Hal Patterson, Red O'Quinn, Tex Coulter and Tom Hugo as soon as possible, the spokesman said. The four players were Big Four all-stars last season.

The move was brought about by Alex Webster's decision to sign with New York Giants and the announcement that quarterback Sam Etchevery has signed two contracts for the coming season—one with Montreal and one with Chicago Cardinals.

Vancouver Swimmers Top Inter-City Gala

Vancouver YMCA churned up a 122-66 victory over Victoria YMCA swimmers Saturday night in an inter-club swim gala at Crystal Garden.

The Vancouver Torpedo Club recorded victories in 15 of the 22 events on the schedule, dominating every class but the girls under-13 age group, in which Aggie McKinnon's local swimmers picked up most of their points. Sally Holland and J. Wheaton scored victories in the under 13 class for Victoria and the local club won the 150-yard medley relay.

Scullers Down Bays, Near Miller Cup Title

The big Vancouver Rowing Club rugby side brushed off James Bay Athletic Association in Vancouver Saturday and thereby came close to clinching the Miller Cup championship.

Rowing Club whipped the Bays, 17-0 at Brocton Point to take a two-point lead in the inter-club competition with one more game to play.

The scullers scored one goal and four tries against the Victoria squad, John Maxwell, Gerry Main and John Kurbis scoring unconverted tries in the first half with Bob Thom and Maxwell going over the line in the second half. Ian Hendry booted the only convert, on Thom's try but missed four other conversions and two penalty kicks.

In an exhibition match played locally, Oak Bay Wanderers took the measure of Vancouver Ex-Tech, 17-5, at Windsor Park. Ex-Tech leads the Vancouver second division.

Alberni 83, Victoria 78

Bouncy Gordy Jones gave Elmer Spiedel and the Alberni Athletics a case of the galloping jitters at Central Junior High School gym Saturday night.

Alberni beat the short-handed Orphans, 82-78, but they came out with a new respect for Jones, the kid with the lightning-quick hands, and murderous jump shot.

Jones missed only four shots in the first half and he had 16 points before he missed a shot. Firing on the run, twisting jump shots over the checking of Spiedel, Jones picked up 20 points in the first half to keep Victoria in contention and finished with a total of 29.

While Jones was flashing all over the court, casting off with his spectacular shots, big Johnny Clark was doing his usual business-like job at centre, tapping in rebounds and potting hook shots and lay-ins for a total of 26 points.

However, Alberni had a couple of big guns who could not be muzzled, Spiedel and Ron Bissett both notching 21 points, husky Doug Brinham potting 18 and centre Joe Samarin hanging up 15.

Orphans, expected to fold without the help of Don Hill and Dave Williamson, did anything but. They held the lead on three occasions in the first half, were behind 44-48 at the half and were outscored 35-34 in the second half.

SWEDES TRIM RUSSIAN SIDE

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Sweden scored a surprise 5-2 victory over Russia in a hockey game before 30,000 fans here Sunday.

The win gave the Swedes a 7-6 total goals edge in the two-game exhibition competition. The Russians, who won the world championship in Stockholm last year, defeated the Swedes 4-2 Friday night.

The Swedes, who previously lost two games to the Russians at home, appeared the better team Sunday.

TEX COULTER MAY RETIRE

MONTREAL (CP) — The Herald says Tex Coulter, 30-year-old all-star tackle with Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football League, likely will retire from the game.

The newspaper quotes Coulter as saying in a long-distance telephone call to his home in Dallas, Texas, that he feels he is growing too old for football and that he's "fed up" with playing a two-way game.

Coulter handled punting chores for Alouettes last season as well as playing an outstanding defensive game at tackle.

Coulter has started his own construction business in Dallas.

CAHA Seeks Better Deal for V's

PORT ARTHUR (CP).—Financing of the trip by Peatixton V's to represent Canada at the world hockey championships in Germany next month came under fire Saturday at the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

CAHA president W. B. George, of Kemptonville Ont., served notice that the CAHA feels that other countries will have to consider paying the Canadian team for appearing in the world tournament.

"We have to compete this season, regardless of the expense," he said, "and if other countries want us to enter a team for future championships, they will have to consider paying the club for appearing in the tournament. We can't and won't take funds away from our senior and junior clubs just to send a club to the Continent."

He said Germany has promised to pay the Canadian team $15,000 for playing in four exhibition games and the world championship but that an additional $5,000 will have to come out of the CAHA reserve fund to meet the team's expenses.

Sooty Melville, of Regina, representing the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League, raised the question of whether the V's, Allan Cup champions last year, would need reinforcements for the world championships.

East York Lyndhursts, Canadian entry last year, were defeated for the championship by Russia. George said he thought the addition of any players would drop the high morale of the team.

"What a winning team needs is a high morale and if they haven't got that then they are lacking a much-needed ingredient in the making of a championship club," he said.

Robert Label of the Quebec Hockey League said he didn't think the addition of players would affect club morale.

A resolution by vice-president M. J. Butler of Kelowna, B.C.,

TO JOIN BOMBERS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP).

Bobby Freeman, star Auburn quarterback, and Auburn centre Jack Locklear, have signed contracts with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, the Birmingham News says.

affirming CAHA confidence in the V's as Canadian representative, was passed unanimously.

In other business, CAHA vice-president James Dunn of Winnipeg, said another invitation would be sent to a Japanese team to tour Canada as soon as the CAHA sensed such a venture would succeed. An earlier tour by a Japanese team planned for this month was cancelled owing to lack of money, he said.

George said it was impossible to send a Canadian team to Russia this year since the CAHA meeting conflicted with the dates suggested by the Russians and a team could not go without being accompanied by a CAHA representative.

Says Pro Prexy

CHICAGO (AP) -- George Halas foresees slim pickings at the annual National Football League player draft meeting in New York Jan. 27-30.

The owner-coach of the Chicago Bears said Sunday he thinks this year's college seniors make up the skimpiest pro football crop in years but he says it's hard to put a finger on the reason.

"There are a few players in the country who are considered very good pro prospects and these will be snapped up early in the draft," he said. "But outside of these men, the quality of available candidates levels off."

He refrained from naming the limited few of priority rating "because it wouldn't be good for the other boys to feel classified in a sub-standard group."

Win Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP).--The Southern College All-Stars rallied with two touchdown drives in the second half to defeat the North 126 in the Senior Bowl football game before 34,000 fans Saturday.

Fight to Draw

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) -- John Gonsalves, a feather puncher from Oakland, Calif., fought to a draw with Wallace Bud Smith of Cincinnati Saturday night in a 10-round lightweight fight. The decision was received with boos by the crowd.

Smith, one of the hardest hitters in his division, floored Gonsalves with a left in the first round and had him on the verge of a knockout in the fourth.

GOLDEN ABBEY WINS

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP).--Johnny Longden brought Golden Abbey home the winner Saturday in the $25,000 Santa Catalina Handicap at Santa Anita Park. The favored Correlation ran fifth.

BASEBALL SALE

CLEVELAND (AP).--Cleveland Indians sold outfielder Jim Dyck and infielder Bill Glynn to their American Association farm club, Indianapolis Indians, Saturday.

Not Guilty

MONTREAL (CP) -- Lew Hayman, who ended his association with Montreal Alouettes Dec. 31, said Sunday he is the unfortunate victim of one phase of a football season that refuses to hibernate.

A story out of Ottawa last Thursday, contributing to football's crazy pre-season pattern, said there were reports that Hayman would bring an American pro club to Montreal.

"I know nothing about it, and it is all news to me," said the former managing director of Alouettes. "I haven't the faintest idea how such a report originated."

PATTY VICTORIOUS

PARIS, France (BUP) -- Budge Patty of Los Angeles turned back Wimbledon champion Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia 11-9, 6-2, 12-10, yesterday to win the men's singles crown in the Pierre Gillou tennis tournament. Angela Buxton of Great Britain defeated France's Susan Chatrier, 6-4, 6-1 in the women's final.

most imposing sight. The type-scripts had been gorgeously bound, while some of the plans had even been printed, to indicate finality and perfection.
There was only one thing wrong with this scheme — it was fantastically inadequate to meet allied requirements.

My role was to make its inadequacy clear to the American government. I had to persuade Washington to base its production program, not on the theories of the painstaking planners, but on the realities of America's enormous productive capacity.

Caused Ferment

To do this the American government would have to improve as no country had ever improved before. The United States official publication, "Industrial Mobilization for War," gives an account of the ferment we caused in Washington. We certainly went all out to smash official complacency. We pressed our point of view at innumerable meetings in the White House, the vice-president's office and elsewhere. I took the battle to the president, plying him with letters and memoranda and putting to him at personal interviews the case for abandoning the planned program and adopting a policy of improvisation on a mighty scale. We campaigned with such force that soon official Washington seemed to become involved in the controversy. The newspapers joined in, adding to the general stir.

My argument was based on my own experience and I claimed that America could produce in 1942, 45,000 tanks, 17,000 anti-tank guns, 45,000 anti-aircraft guns, 24,000 fighter al-planes and other war material.
The planners objected. Preposterous! they exclaimed. The demand is ridiculous.
Their inadequate schemes would assuredly have been accepted, had not the imaginative grasp of President Roosevelt seized on our programme and made it his own. Had the worthy planners prevailed over the improvisers the war certainly could not have been won in 1945. Instead, we prevailed.
We changed the entire American outlook.

Real Triumph

Thanks to the president, our estimates of production were adopted. A war program increased by billions of dollars for 1942 was presented to Congress by him. (This program is set out in the official United States publication "Industrial Mobilization for War," a history of the War Production Board and Predecessor Agencies, 1940-1945.)
It was designed to give us overwhelming superiority in armaments.
This revised program was not only fulfilled but exceeded—a triumph for improvisation.

Improvisation, whether in peace or war, serves its greatest use when danger threatens and misfortune is on the prowl.
The man set in his ways is then lost, because he demands too much time to think and thus moves slower than events. The improviser is off on a new track before the man of routine has fully appreciated the problem.

But improvisation must be used while there is still time to gain an advantage. It is little use following the routine ways until all is lost and then expect that improvisation will automatically put everything right again. Improvisations must be carried through at once, as soon as the first difficulties are glimpsed. Take them on the run and they are nothing. Walk at a slow and ponderous pace and they may seem insurmountable.

To the man who sees, the man who can make snap decisions—and alter them as quickly if he finds that they are not as good as he thought—advantage can come from the most frightening situation.
Success belongs to those who,
by swift improvisations, snatch triumph from catastrophe.

Hits Rigid Minds

Beware of the rigid minds.
The man who sits back and says complacently that something cannot be done is always beaten by the enterprising fellow who makes a way of doing it.

That is another way of saying, "Beware of paying too much attention to organization." Over-organization is the enemy of improvisation. The ever-present temptation which obsesses organizers, as always, is to over-organize. And over-organization leads to the strangulation of enterprise.

Nowhere has this truth been more clearly demonstrated than in the Soviet Union, which relies for its production upon long-range state control of every branch of industry. Stalin told this story of his conversation with a commissar responsible for organizing the work of the collective farms.

Stalin—How are you getting on with the sowing?
Commissar—With the sowing, Comrade Stalin? We have mobilized ourselves.

Stalin—Well, and what then?
Commissar—We have put the question squarely.

Stalin—And what next?
Commissar—There is a turn, Comrade Stalin; soon there will be a turn.

Stalin—But still?
Commissar—We can say that there is an indication of some progress.

Stalin—But for all that how are you getting on with the sowing?
Commissar—So far, Comrade Stalin, we have not begun to sow.

Not Its Slave

The organizers have a very honorable part to play in any enterprise, but it must never be the leading part. Otherwise there will soon be nothing but organization.

The successful man may have a flair for organization, but the very fact of his success proves that he is not its slave.

Such a man has little patience with endless committee meetings in which talk stifles action.

Neither does the successful man give undue importance to "plans." Plans can go awry.
Then new plans are laboriously prepared and followed, but before they are followed they must be approved and by the time they are approved the situation they are designed to meet may have completely altered.

The art of dealing with the unexpected is lost when a man is waiting on a machine, on an organization or a committee.
And the lamps of passion and conviction burn low when we do not seek by every instrument of persuasion or education to maintain the integrity of our own judgment and conscience.

Punch Is Lost

That lesson has remained with me. I urge every leader of an enterprise to keep under vigilant observation every kind of organizational device, to make sure that it is not stiffling the activities it was created to help.

Organization, if not watched, will cease to be the servant of industry. It will become its master. And that, for industry, will be the beginning of the end. Over-organization takes the punch out of business.

Although wars are won by improvisers, they also offer great opportunities for the organizers to become deeply entrenched in a country's economic life. They remain entrenched long after the armies have been demobilized. It happens in this way.

When war breaks out, government becomes the only purchaser, and the sole customer of all the great producers in the country. They are confined to a single market and transactions are conducted on the basis of cost plus a percentage of profits. As a result, efficiency declines, there are wasteful increases in salaries, and the only brake on complete extravagance is the patriotism which animates all branches of industry.

Demands Ignored

When peace comes the system is slowly disbanded. The producers cling to the cost plus profit system and administrators are loath to divert themselves of the control of industry which makes for importance.
Changing demands are ignored.
New opportunities neglected.
The planning authorities still impose their fixed conditions.

Gradually, as a government control is lifted, efficiency increases, economic working is restored. The field is again open for free enterprise.

Related to the danger of over-organization is the danger of trusting new enterprises to men who "know it all." There is a general idea that if you want some enterprise to succeed and prosper you must pick the most experienced man you can find to run it. He must be the man—or so they say—with the greatest measure of success already behind him.
Put him in charge of the new venture and expect that the results he has already achieved in life will be repeated. But things do not always work out that way. In fact, this is a bad principle.

Develop New Talent

It is a principle which results in more errors and failures than successes. Frequently, very frequently, the selection of such a man brings to bear on the task a tired and weary mind, someone who is already set in his ways and fixed in his ideas. Often he is so hide-bound that he has no capacity at all for improvisation. He cannot meet a new situation in a new and changing world.

The proper method to start a new enterprise is to select new men, relying on one's own knowledge of human nature.
Experience will train the untried talent. First of all, settle in your own mind the qualities you wish to develop, and then decide where you can find these qualities in the raw, ready and ripe for development. Now, when these qualities are present in the men you select, you have a fortunate and utterly satisfying experience.

Such men will make fruitful use of their opportunities. They will enrich the world.

"Blessed is the man whose strength is in these: in whose heart are thy ways. Who going through the vale of misery use it for a well; and the pools are filled with water."

Out of Their Talks—What?

UN Secretary Dag Hammarskjold at cocktail party held in his honor by Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai (right), in Peiping.

Hammarskjold, Chou End Peiping Parley

Final Communique Makes No Mention
Of Fate of 11 U.S. Airmen Held by Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and Premier Chou En-lai ended their Peiping conferences today with an expressed hope "to continue contact." Their communique made no mention of the fate of the 11 U.S. airmen imprisoned in Red China.

"We feel that these talks have been useful and we hope to be able to continue the contact established in these meetings," they said.

The UN secretary-general had been assigned by the UN General Assembly to seek release of the fliers and other UN personnel held in China. He flew to Peiping and had talked an aggregate of 13½ hours with Chou. Today's fourth and final meeting took up an hour and 15 minutes.

Chou gave a farewell dinner for the secretary-general tonight. Earlier the Swedish ambassador in Peiping, Hugo Wis-strand, held a farewell reception for Hammarskjold and his party.

Chou and four of the Chinese officials who participated in the talks with him also attended the Swedish party.

U.S. Tests New Clause In Smith Act

Can Communist Membership
Be Made Crime?

CHICAGO (UP)—Communist leader Claude Lightfoot went on trial today in the U.S. government's first court attempt to prove that mere membership in the Communist Party is a crime.

The trial of the 44-year-old executive secretary of the Illinois Communist party was the first court test of a Smith Act clause which makes it a crime
"to become a member of, or affiliate with" any group which teaches, advocates or encourages the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

FIRST SINGLE TRIAL

Lightfoot was also the first Red leader to face trial alone.

The 81 persons previously convicted under the Smith Act were tried for conspiracy to organize groups working for the government's overthrow—not for merely being a member of such a group.

If convicted, Lightfoot could be sentenced to 10 years in prison and a maximum fine of

S-WEET SESSION

Such a conviction could also set the stage for the arrest and imprisonment of thousands of other American Communists.

The trial before federal district Judge Philip L. Sullivan expected to last six to eight weeks, U.S. attorneys said. It began today with selection of the jurors.

Whatever the decision here,
the issue of whether membership in the Communist party is a crime was expected to end up before the U.S. Supreme Court.

CCF Silent on Findings After Probing Suspensions

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officially the CCF declined to comment Sunday on the findings of a five-man-party executive committee which met Saturday to hear the case of 23 officers and members suspended from North Vancouver CCF Association.

The suspensions were ordered after the North Vancouver group sponsored a public meeting addressed by Rod Young, former CCF Member of Parliament, who resigned from the party following a dispute last July.

"I know nothing whatsoever of what the findings of the committee were," said Frank Mc-Kenzie, provincial CCF president.

"The committee will in all likelihood prepare a written report which will take a little time to prepare. It will be turned over to the provincial executive."

Mr. Young resigned in the face of suspension and trial by the party's executive after declaring at a public meeting that he was "proud to be called a Communist."

Following his resignation, the executive warned all provincial CCF groups they would be suspended if Mr. Young was asso-

Mr. Ecsedy has given many recitals in major cities of Canada and the United States, and will be heard on the CBC from Vancouver early in February.

Joe Friday To Be Wed On Thursday

CHICAGO (UP)—Sgt. Joe Friday, sometimes known as Jack Webb, brought a blonde into city hall today.

His assignment: To get a marriage license.

Eventually, to marry her. The way the facts look now, Friday will be married on Thursday.

Friday, who prefers to be known as Webb when he isn't acting the part of the television detective, flew into town last night with his milk-chef fiancée, Dorothy Towne.

He kissed his 25-year-old fiancée heartily for the benefit of photographers and, abandoning his usual poker-faced expression, smiled and waved from the airplane ramp.

Then, getting down to the facts, he said he and Miss Towne would apply for a marriage license today and get married as soon as Illinois law permits.

The law requires a three-day waiting period after issuance of a license. So Thursday would be the earliest day Miss Towne could become Mrs. Webb.

'SPECTACULARS' HERE TO STAY

Writer Thinks Filmed TV Shows Stronger; 1955 To Be 'Crucial' Year for Some Stars

NEW YORK (NEA)—There's snow on the crystal ball. Until repair man gets here, we'll just have to do some good guessing about whether television will drift in '55. But some things seem fairly certain:

1. Spectaculars are here to stay—and they'll get more spectacular. 2. Filmed TV shows will get stronger—even invading one field of TV entertainment hitherto unspoiled.

3. This year, for some stars, is a crucial one. It's a turning-point year, with old favorites facing declines and new favorites coming up.

4. TV will spend more time improving the non-prime hours to a greater extent—morning, daytime, late night.

Those seem to be the major trends. This is, of course, a hazardous time to guess about television, because TV's new year is in September. It's then that the brass dreams up the starting innovations. So any predicting, as of January, is therefore an extra-long-distance project.

But, judging on 1954, the spectaculars are permanent residents of the coaxial cable. While they were often dull and severely criticized, they got high ratings. Unquestionably, this was due to the high candle-power of the stars they employed.

The "specs" represent a major change in programming philosophy, and the first real programming difference between radio and TV. Radio-remember radio?—was always scheduled on a definite system. Every Sunday night at seven, for example, was Jack Benny. But the specs change all that. You have to have a scorecard around to be sure what's going to be on TV these days. Your memory is no good. One weeks there may be a spec, the next week some filmed comedy. At least one network—ABC—believes the old way is best. No spectaculars on ABC. They feel that people still want to know that on such-and-such a night, at such-and-such a time, there'll always be Danny Thomas. But both CBS and NBC are committed to spectaculars—hour-and-a-half or two-hour shows that come on, say, every three or four weeks. More money will be poured into them in '55. Bigger casts. Brighter colors. Bouncier music. Efforts are being made to lure the last untelevised big star, Danny Kaye, into a spectacular this year.

The announcement late in '54 that Jackie Gleason would film part of his show next year, plus the earlier decision by Eddie Cantor to go on film, meant that '55 will see the first filmed comedy shows.

Too Much Talking, No Work, Hubby Locks Up Phone

MUSKOGON, Mich. (UP)—Muskegon Township police said Saturday that a husband who locks up the telephone every day so his wife will do more housework is acting within his own rights and there is nothing they can do about it.

A woman who told them her husband locked up the telephone before he went to work every day.

The woman said her husband thought she was spending too much time on the telephone and wasn't doing enough housework.

Reducing Aid to Fatten Gleason Purse, Slim Him

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jackie Gleason, the Rockefeller of TV, today disclosed how he may make another million.

This time the money will come off the fat of the land, including Gleason's.

The rotund comic, who now smashes the scales at 265 pounds, will start a reducing program on next Saturday's show.

"We have sewed up the new reducing aid that will take blubber off a whale," Gleason declared.

To promote the reducing aid, Gleason will start taking it himself, beginning next Saturday.

Second City Towboat Sent to Wreck Scene

Attempt to Refloat Reef-Ripped Tug In Kyoquot Sound Scheduled Wednesday

A second Island Tug & Barge towboat, and an "A-frame" derrick barge, were scheduled to leave Victoria this afternoon to help salvage Island Navigator, holed on a reef last Wednesday.

Navigator is beached on the steep shoreline of Kyoquot Sound, about 150 miles north of Port Alberni. The tug Island Commander, which reached the scene Thursday with a salvage crew and diver aboard, is standing by while initial repairs are effected.

Underwater damage sustained when she struck the reef includes two large holes, one about three feet by four, the other about two feet by three. Her master, Capt. George Dance, ran her ashore about 1,000 feet from the reef when it became evident the pumps couldn't contain the water.

Navigator lies at a 45-degree fore-and-aft angle. The beach shelves off sharply into deep water, and the tug is secured to trees by heavy towing cables.

With the derrick barge alongside, Navigator will be patched and pumped out, then raised by the A-frame derrick. Island Tug officials hope they can raise the ship by Wednesday.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Monday specials—substandards and off-sizes at reduced prices.

The voters in Delta have apparently voted out their neighborhood pub without knowing they had done so. Which proves that even the poor down-trodden voter should read the small print on the back of the contract.

Among other gems of wit, wisdom and information in the current issue of American Magazine is the startling statement that rain is three weeks old when it falls.

For years I've been defending Victoria's mist by saying how refreshing a nice, fresh shower is.

And now I find it isn't fresh at all, it is three weeks old. Say it ain't so, Bill.

I see where some of the aldermanic candidates who came out against the secrecy by-law during the campaign now appear to wish they had kept their intentions secret.

The newspapers have also been accused of gnawing a mountain out of a molehill on the secrecy issue. You must admit that this is, at least, a constructive approach.

But it's too bad so much publicity has been focussed on secret committee meetings.

Perhaps we should just ignore the whole thing; then maybe it would go away.

I have been charged with neglect, inasmuch as I have not made any fearless predictions for 1955.

I will remedy this omission immediately. My fearless prediction for 1955 is, it will have about 365 days, divided into approximately 12 months and about 52 weeks, and it will last in the neighborhood of one year. Most days will be 24 hours long, at least.

I think you will find this prediction is just about right.

Pardon me, but your sleep is showing, as hubby said to his yawning wife at the breakfast table.

A-BOMB SURVIVOR

Stowaway, 15, Locked By Love and Law

A teen-age Japanese stowaway is confined to tiny, prison-like quarters aboard the Greek-owned freighter Ss Halcyon at Esquimalt drydock today.

For the next week, while the freighter is undergoing a dry-dock scrape-and-paint followed by loading wheat for South Africa, the 15-year-old will spend his time in a small cabin, securely padlocked. Halcyon docked here Saturday, will clear for sea this week-end. The busin has been charged with seeing the boy doesn't leave the ship.

If young Ichiro Hoshi did escape, the captain of Halcyon would be liable to a $2,000 fine for an offense against federal immigration law.

HIDDEN 3 DAYS

Ichiro slipped aboard when the ship was loading in Kobe, Japan. He hid under a tarpaulin and wasn't detected until the ship was three days at sea, bound for Victoria.

Ichiro's home used to be Hiroshima, and he lost his parents in the A-bomb blast that preceded VJ day in 1945.

The Greek crew of the ship, which is of the Japanese registry, has adopted the young Japanese and showered him with kindness. They've equipped him with clothing, and they see that he is fed and as comfortable as possible in his cramped quarters.

ROUND-WORLD JAUNT

The captain's present intention is to keep him aboard, under the watchful eye of the busin, until the tramp freighter circles the globe and again touches a Japanese port.

But final decision on Ichiro's fate lies in the hands of the ship's owners, Kulkundis Brothers of Greece. They can ship him home—if they pay his passage and untangle the necessary red tape. Cost of this would be about $600.

His friend the busin hopes he'll stay aboard. "I'll teach him about ships," he promised.

Hospitals Get $6,000 in Will of Famed Florist

The German-born gardener, who during his lifetime distributed flowers, shrubs and trees to nearly all parts of North America, died on Sept. 10 of last year. He lived until his death on his Wilkinson Road nursery.

In his will, filed in Supreme Court Registry today, Mr. Layritz bequeathed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital each $3,000. He also left legacies to some of his old employees.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1955 11

CHILLINESS ON WAY OUT

Victoria can expect a couple of comparatively warm days ahead with temperatures ranging from 32 degrees at night to a high of 45 degrees during daylight hours, weatherman William Mackie predicted today.

Temperature Sunday night went down to 31.8 degrees at the weather station, lowest to date this year. Temperature at the grass level was 26.4.

The next two days are expected to be generally cloudy as a result of fringe reaction to a weather disturbance out in the Pacific.

Archivist Sees Kipling Quality In B.C. Pioneers

The pioneers of B.C. displayed the qualities that Rudyard Kipling was always urging on his countrymen, provincial archivist Willard Ireland told some 40 members of the Kipling Society at their annual dinner Saturday night at the Strathcona Hotel.

He said that Canadians owe a debt to the pioneers and to Kipling, whose words have been an inspiration for many and good advice for all.

Members heard a report from Capt. J. D. Prentice on a recent visit he and his wife made to "Bateman's" in Sussex, England, a former home of Kipling.

Entertainment was provided by Arthur Jackman and K. C. Symons.

2 Traffic Counts Cost $300 Fines

Edward A. Vanderlip, 329 Huntington Place, was fined a total of $300 or 25 days in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to two traffic violations.

Magistrate H. C. Hall fined him $250 or 15 days and suspended license on an impaired driving charge and an additional $50 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Court was told that Jan. 8 a car driven south on Douglas by the accused turned onto Humboldt and collided with another car.

He failed to stop, proceeded through a red light, hit another car after turning onto Government Street and crashed into a parking meter.

Cripples Seek Action On Dormitory Centre

Handicapped Group Organizes Campaign To Build All-Purpose Home for Disabled

Erection of a combined dormitory-dining-room auditorium for Victoria's handicapped is a 1955 project for the League for the Handicapped, its executive decided at the week-end.

President Fred Blakeney said today the building, if constructed, would not be limited to use by the league, but would also serve as a public meeting place similar, to a community centre, if present plans permit.

To study the proposal is a committee of community-wide representatives which Mr. Blakeney is now assembling. Those being invited to participate are aldermen, legislators, social welfare men, businessmen, financial experts, doctors and handicapped persons, as well as others who are interested in the league.

NEW GROUP FORMED

An auxiliary to the league was formed Friday night, consisting of persons who offer their services to handicapped persons in driving, preparing refreshments at meetings and in numerous other ways. They are called the Handi-Members.

Major reasons for a new building include the fact that existing facilities in most buildings impede handicapped individuals and many are not getting a proper diet. Also, present auditorium space in Victoria is limited.

"We feel this to be an economically sound proposition," said Mr. Blakeney, "and we don't want people to gain the impression that it would be carried by public subscription."

"The building, we feel, could be built and operated on a sound business basis. But that does not imply that it would be carried by public subscription."

Factors such as this will be of prime consideration in the proposed building, which would be as modern as possible. Initial accommodation would be for single persons, but later handicapped couples may be provided for. Diet would be strictly controlled to enable the handicapped to get the most benefit from their new environment.

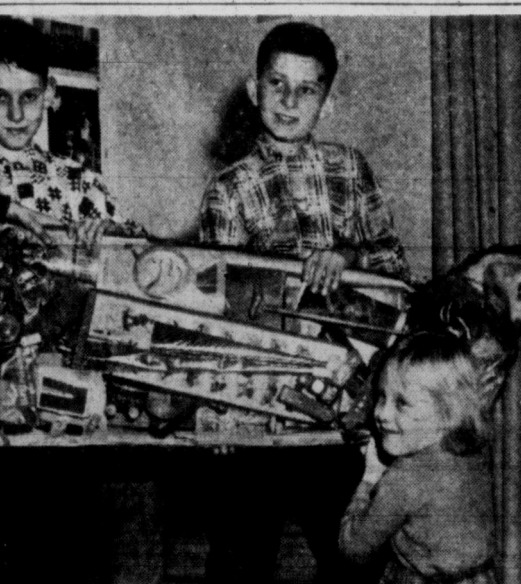

Preparation of an employment application form for handicapped members was announced at the meeting. It will enable the league to steer possible workers into channels where they can be effectively employed.

52 Cases Slated For Appeal Here Starting Tuesday

A total of 52 criminal and civil cases are scheduled to be heard at the B.C. Court of Appeal winter session to open at the courthouse Tuesday at 11.

The appeal of Crispin Zalinko of Courtenay will be the first case to be heard by the court. Zalinko is appealing against convictions of conveying liquor on the premises of the RCAF station at Comox, assaulting a security officer and being drunk.

He failed to stop, proceeded through a red light, hit another car after turning onto Government Street and crashed into a parking meter.

Faulty Drill Blamed in Fatality

Tighter Inspection Urged For Municipal Machinery

A Saanich Public Works Department official blamed worn-out machinery for a fatality last Wednesday on the Saanich sewer project.

Sewer Project In Esquimalt Costs $40,000

Local Improvement Authority Acts

A $40,000 sewer project and several more curb and gutter programs are slated for construction in Esquimalt during 1955 under local improvement authority, engineer John Graeme said today.

Petitions requesting local improvement curbs, sidewalks and gutters are now in circulation in various parts of the municipality. Others may turn up at any time during the year since local improvement works are not confined by the municipality's budget.

Completed at the end of last year was the first major sewer project undertaken through local improvement authority in Esquimalt—the Forshaw-Shirley sewer program costing about $70,000.

Two new areas expected to be included in the 1955 curb and gutter program are Kinver Street and Wollaston Street.

Public works department currently is engaged in a curb, gutter and sidewalk program in the Colville wartime housing area. This job will be finished in about three months if weather holds, said Mr. Graeme.

Biggest job this season will be rebuilding of Admirals Road, survey work for which is now being carried on. Plans must be submitted to the department of national defense for approval.

Alertness of a city police constable Saturday night saved the life of a Metochin motorist.

Constable John Adams was on regular patrol shortly after 8 p.m. when he noticed a car with its motor running and windows rolled up in front of the Westholme Hotel on Government Street.

He opened the door and found James R. Georgesen, 28, Albert Head, slumped on the floor suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning.

The constable quickly summoned an inhalator crew and gave artificial respiration.

The motorist was taken to hospital unconscious and given oxygen treatment.

Police were told by the attending doctor that if he had been in the car another five minutes he would have died.

City Teachers' Pay Demand Confined to Some Classes

Pay increases for certain categories of teachers in the Greater School District will be asked of the board of trustees in a special meeting tonight.

But no general across-the-board boost or fringe benefits will be sought.

H. C. O'Donnell, president of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, told the Times today the intent of the teachers is merely "... to straighten out some points in our present schedules."

A group of about six teachers will meet with the school board at the board offices, at 8 p.m. Mrs. Hazel Hodson, teacher at Victoria High School, will present a brief on behalf of the district's 542 local teachers.

Mr. O'Donnell will attend as an ex-officio member of the bargaining committee.

Present salary schedules were agreed upon last January after three months' negotiation. Instead of granting a general increase at that time a new wage scale with six classifications was worked out on a sliding basis.

It was suggested earlier that the teachers might seek to eliminate some of the categories.

The 1954 increases represented a 3.96 increase in salaries paid. In 1953 the teachers won a 4 per cent boost when they went to arbitration.

A trustee meeting last week suggested that this year's negotiations may end also before the arbitration board. The board set an early meeting with the teachers "... because it takes about a month to get an

Thomas Kershaw, mechanical supervisor of machinery for Saanich, told a coroner's jury that an air-compressor pipe blew apart in the face of Elmo Reda because the threads of an "elbow" had been worn by the machine's vibration.

Reda, 35, of 2606 Wark, was killed instantly when he was struck on the head by the metal elbow.

The accident occurred at Quadra and Cloverdale where a work crew was drilling holes for blasting a ditch for sewer pipes.

In its verdict the jury made two recommendations.

It advocated the appointment of a man by Saanich to inspect all municipal machinery.

SAFETY CHAIN

It also urged that a chain be fastened to the air compressor pipe to prevent it from flying apart at the joints.

Evidence given at the inquest indicated that Reda was bending to pick up the air compressor pipe when it suddenly blew apart. The victim did not have time to jump back and was struck on the side of his head between the temple and ear.

Five Injured In Week-End Accidents

Two cyclists were among five persons injured in week-end traffic accidents.

Karnel Singh, 13, 545 Hillside, suffered an ankle injury when knocked from his bike at Pandora and Broad Sunday evening.

Tommy Fitzsimmons, 15, received a cut ear and lip and abrasions to the forehead and knee when knocked from his bicycle.

A three-car collision at Quadra and View Streets Sunday about 11 a.m. sent two persons to hospital.

Mrs. J. T. Frenette, 52, 1048 Queens Avenue, suffered chest and back injuries and was admitted to hospital.

Mrs. Bessie Fice, 1203 Chambers, was treated for a foot injury.

Police said an auto driven east on View by Joseph T. Frenette, 1048 Queens, passed a stop sign and collided with an auto driven north on Quadra by Harry Borden, 3498 Cook.

The Frenette car was then in collision with another vehicle stopped on View Street.

Mrs. Sete Lowe, 466 Pender Street East, Vancouver, received bruises to the head in a two-car collision at Douglas and Herald Streets, Sunday, at 12:15 a.m.

An auto driven south on Douglas Street by William J. Kellett, Albert Head, collided with an auto driven east on Herald Street by Lim Bang, 1036 Balmoral.

Mrs. Lowe was a passenger in the Lim Bang car.

Inspection Set For CWAC Here

Captain F. K. L. Trusdale, CWAC staff officer, Western Command, will visit the Bay Street Armoury Wednesday and Thursday to inspect CWAC personnel here.

At present 18 women soldiers are assigned to local units, and the new 5th West Coast Harbor Defense Battery will have a large CWAC establishment when authority is granted.

They Call 'Em Signature Notes and You'll Love 'Em

By PENNY SAVER

Every time an occasion comes along that requires you to buy a gift, do you have a time trying to find just the right card? One that is large enough for a note, but not as large as a regular-sized card. The thing for you is a box of 10 "Signature Notes" made by a well-known card maker... it sells for $1. These cards are oblong and measure about seven inches by two inches. A long stemmed rose graces the front of the cards and accentuates the length and narrow shape of them. They're so sweet that you'll find yourself trying to find excuses to send them to your friends... just to show them off!

Bamboo "glasses" that will withstand heat, cold and alcohol seem to me the ideal piece of equipment for your rumpled tanager that will not melt, warp, discolor, or break! Four sizes of smooth finish bamboo... made right from the end stalks of the tree... you can see the knot at the bottom that makes the sealed base of the "glasses." Sixty-nine cents and up... here's a novelty that will last for ages.

More bamboo... baskets for any room in the house. The ones that caught my fancy were the openwork wastepaper baskets in so many different sizes. Ranging from 98 cents to $1.38, these are all hand made and can be painted to match your room.

Here's something different... waste paper baskets with satin backgrounds in brilliant colors to show off silk brocade and taffeta piece work making up figures of the eight immor-

TODAY'S RECIPE

CABBAGE GOLDENROD

Two and one-quarter pounds head cabbage, 1/2 inch boiling water in saucepan, 1/2 teaspoon salt, lemon-cheese sauce, 2 hard-boiled eggs.

Cut cabbage into 6 wedges. Place in a saucepan along with 1/2 inch boiling water and the 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cover. Boil 15 minutes or until tender. (For milder flavor lift cover 3 to 4 times to permit the acids to escape with the steam.) Place cabbage on a serving dish. Pour lemon-cheese sauce over all. Put hard-boiled eggs through a sieve and sprinkle over the sauce. Yield: Six servings.

LEMON-CHEESE SAUCE

One tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 1/4 cups milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper, 1/2 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

Melt butter or margarine. Blend in flour. Gradually stir in milk. Cook until medium thickness, stirring constantly. Add salt, black pepper and cheese. Mix well. Stir in lemon juice.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do you feel a special something in the air, a special feeling of uplift and lightness, a sense of sloughing off the old and burdensome and taking to heart a new and more vibrant and happier way of life?

Well, if you do, it is because thousands of women in the United States, in Canada, and in other parts of the world, have joined my Eight-Week Self-Improvement Marathon and are taking their daily routines seriously.

I always get a big kick out of this series I write each January because I know so well how much it will mean to so many women. In increased energy, more physical attractiveness, a loss of self-consciousness, and therefore rich living.

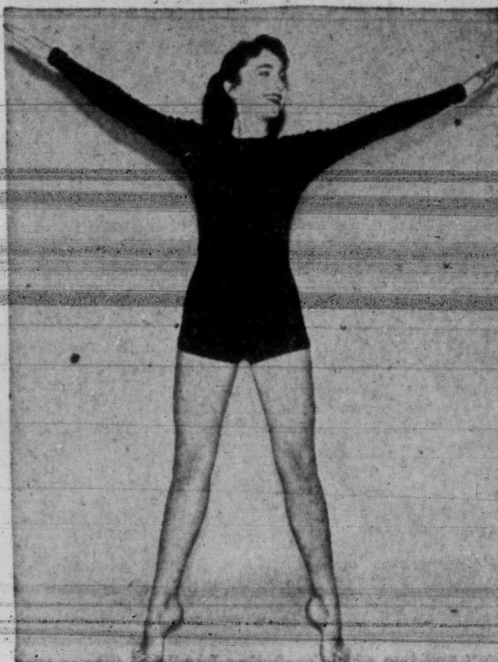

When the mail pyramids, as it always does, I feel wonderful! This also puts pressure on me because I cannot afford to be like the bald-headed man who was selling hair tonic.

TAKE IT EASY

Let me give you a word of warning about exercise. Once a woman decides that she is going to "do something about it," she is apt to use little judgment about the amount of exercise she takes. She thinks that if a little is good, more is better.

To the contrary—for health's sake and for your own comfort—take it easy! Begin by doing each exercise only five times and gradually work up to doing each exercise 30 or 35 times daily. If you are unaccustomed to exercise, start very slowly, because if you don't, your muscles will become so sore that you will give the whole idea up.

No matter how slowly you begin, you will experience some soreness in your muscles, but continue, and after a week or 10 days, this will pass. So many times, when teaching figure-molding classes, I have had to go to my pupil and insist that she "take it easy."

Should She Invite Ex-Steady to Prom?

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

The senior prom is the high point in the year for most high school students. Naturally, a girl wants to spend that time with the boy she likes best.

(Q.) "I have been going steady with a boy in my class in school ever since the beginning of the sophomore year. This year he said he did not want to go steady, because he wanted to have more time for his studies and to do things with the boys. In our school the girls invite the boys to the senior prom. Should I invite this boy, even though we are no longer going steady? I still like him very much, and I hope he will ask me to go steady again before our senior year is over. My mother thinks I should not invite him to the prom because he might think I was trying to get him to go steady again. But there is no other boy I would enjoy going with as much."

(A.) Because the memory of your senior prom will be one of the most lasting of your school days, you want it to be as happy as possible. For this reason the boy you ask to the prom should be one you would most enjoy being with.

You do not have to be going steady with a boy to invite him to a dance, even one as important as a senior prom. And because you have gone steady with this lad for the major part of your high school career, he is the logical one for you to ask.

The only thing that might hold you back is the knowledge that he has lost interest in you or that he is going steady with another girl. Under such circumstances it would be best not to invite him. He might turn down your invitation, and this alone would be enough to spoil the prom for you. If, on the other hand, his only reason for not wanting to go steady is what he said it was, then he will expect you to invite him to the prom.

Family Here From Central America

By TERRY FRENCH
It was a happy holiday for Miss Elsa Lassally and her elder sister Victoria, who have been attending St. Ann's Academy here for several years.

Their mother, Mrs. Teodoro Lassally, came from San Salvador early in November with their young brother Guillermo and a cousin, Horacio Villavicencio of Guatemala, and the family were together over the holidays. They have been staying at Belleville Lodge.

Horacio and Guillermo, who are on what is equivalent to summer holidays (in San Salvador) the school year begins in February and ends in October. They have been attending English classes at St. Louis College and Mrs. Lassally says "Guillermo speaks English well with his hands."

Mrs. Lassally, who is the wife of a prominent plantation owner and buyer, is keenly interested in welfare work and is very active in charitable organizations in her home city. This is her fourth visit to Victoria.

It is, however, the first visit for her son and nephew and they are eager to see and do everything. Last week-end the family crossed to Vancouver and went up Grouse Mountain so the boys could see their first snow.

During the holiday season, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Smith, 405 Vancouver Street, were hosts to Mrs. Lassally and her family.

She will leave with the boys, by plane, for South America, on January 17. The girls will remain in Victoria to complete their schooling.

Thirty-Five Years in Fair Business Brings Woman Happy Memories

REGINA (CP)—Amy E. Hall says fairs and exhibition work "gets in the blood."

Miss Hall has retired as treasurer of the Regina Exhibition Association after 35 years in the business. She says she enjoyed every year of it, particularly in meeting the many people with whom her work brought her in contact.

Born in Toronto, she has been a resident of Regina for many years. After her family moved to Calgary, she was employed with the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede, and was secretary to the manager, the late E. L. Richardson, whose name was a byword in Canadian exhibition circles.

One of the highlights in her work in Calgary was arranging details for an outdoor concert when the British stage star Gracie Fields made her first tour of Canada. She came to Regina in 1943.

HARD WORKER

Miss Hall is a small person but gives the impression of tremendous energy and resourcefulness. She says her work took most of her time and energy. She estimates the average exhibition worker "puts in 13 months in a year."

Work is particularly strenuous during summer and winter fairs when "three hours' sleep" is standard.

Miss Hall found time to take part in other activities. She is a former president of the Calgary branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club and kept up her affiliation with the Regina branch.

She is active in other Regina women's organizations. Miss Hall says she feels certain it will take adjusting to get used to leisure after a busy career. She intends to remain in Regina but would like to do some travelling.

However, she intends to be on hand when the Regina jubilee exhibition rolls around next summer.

"This year I'm really going to see the fair," she says.

TELEVISION PROGRAMS

Flimed in the Canadian Rockies, the story involves the difficulties of a lady ranch foreman and her late employer's son.

"Desperate Cargo" is the tale to be telecast on KOMO-TV's Curtain Time at 11:05 tonight.

Like opera singers? The Metropolitan's top baritone, Robert Merrill, will put in an appearance on the Voice of Firestone show at 8:30 tonight on KING-TV. He'll sing light classical, operetta, and excerpts from "Carmen."

An alleged grandson of Chief Sitting Bull will present singer Beth Hanger on Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts at 8:30 tonight on KTNV-TV. Others competing will be a quartette and a folk singer.

The two previous programs mentioned

Former Victorian

Victor Williams, Game Warden, Dead

A former Victorian, Victor Williams, well known for his former association with Maynard's Shoe Store, died December 20 at Providence Hospital in Fort St. John.

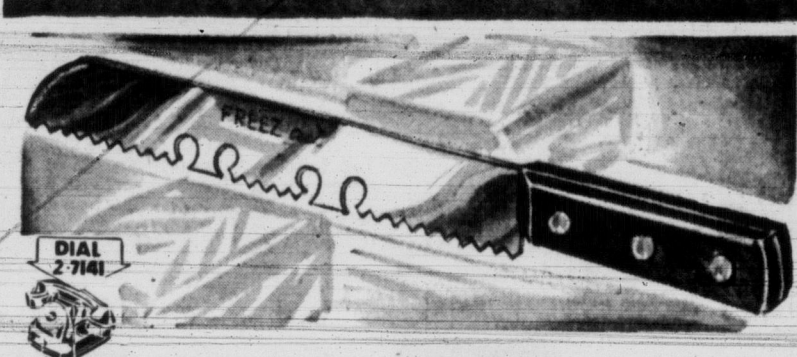

Born in England, he moved to Victoria at the age of 10. Mr. Williams was a friend of the late B.C. premier, "Honest John" Oliver, and in later years was a game warden and guide in the Peace River area. He was a charter member of the Fort St. John Elk's Lodge, and a member of the Canadian Legion.

He is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, three brothers and a sister.
Funeral services were held at the Anglican Church in Fort St. John on December 23.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take DODD'S Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter.

PEACE CONGRESS ACTIVE

MPs Asked to Vote Against German Army

OTTAWA (BUP)—Delegates from the Communist-Canadian Peace Congress were scheduled to button-hole MPs today in an effort to get them to veto the admission of West Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Congress officials said several MPs already had agreed to vote against the proposal to admit a re-armed Germany to NATO. Officials declined to name them, however.

The CCP Party is the only party likely to oppose German rearmament. The party's national convention last summer in Edmonton questioned the wisdom of rearming Germany. A party spokesman said a caucus would be held to map out a course of action.

Peace Congress officials said 1,000 delegates had registered to come here today.

2 Die in Island Highway Crashes

OTTAWA BILL BLOCKS KAISER DAM PROJECT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today introduced in the Commons legislation to give it tight control over the use of river waters flowing into the United States and to revise its authority over the export of other forms of power.

First government bill brought in this session, the water measure would make it necessary to get a federal license to construct any work affecting the natural flow of an international river.

It would apply specifically to provincial governments as well as private interests. Federal authorities already have made it clear an immediate aim of the bill is to block a pending deal between the British Columbia government and the Kaiser Aluminum interests of the United States for use of the Columbia River for hydro power.

Alta. Priest Murdered by Hitchhikers

Three Former RCN Members
Charged With Brutal Killing

BRANDON, Man. (BUP)—Three teen-age boys, believed to be from Montreal, were jointly charged today with the murder of a Roman Catholic priest whose body was found in his wrecked automobile five miles east of here.

Guy Ferragne, 18; Claude Paquin, 17, and Gerard J. Vyon, 17, all recently discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy, were remanded without plea until Jan. 17 when they appeared in police court. Police did not immediately release the home addresses of the youths.

Police said indications were that one of the trio had got out of the car when it stopped about six miles east of Brandon. Then it is believed the car started up again and the youth outside ran along beside it until the shooting took place and the car swerved into a ditch.

They said it appeared two shots entered the priest's right arm as he attempted to protect himself. A third shot pierced his body on the right side.

Motorist Discovers Slaying

The slaying was discovered by a motorist who noticed the priest's car in the ditch. The front door of the car was open and Father Quirion was on the floor by the front seat.

Robbery Believed Motive

RCMP believe robbery was the motive for the slaying of the Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta., and formerly of Quebec.

Police said the youths had $90 on them which they believe was stolen from the priest, who left Winnipeg about 1 p.m. on his way back to his small parish, 100 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Police said there seemed little doubt that the persons who killed Father Quirion knew he was a priest. His black overcoat and hat were found in the back seat where he apparently had discarded them while driving. He was dressed in his priest's garb.

Father Quirion is believed to have picked up the trio near Portage la Prairie, about 60 miles west of Winnipeg and 80 miles east of Brandon on the Trans-Canada Highway.

One of the .32-calibre slugs recovered from the priest's body has been sent to the RCMP laboratory at Regina for ballistic tests.

Father Quirion was returning to the Little Albert settlement after driving a group of Seminars to Winnipeg.

Born in the Quebec parish of St. Jean-de-la-Lande, Father Quirion was ordained in Quebec City in 1938. He had been at St. Edouard since 1951 after service at Vilna and Elk Point in Alberta.

Most Rev. Philip Lucien, bishop of St. Paul diocese which includes St. Edouard.

British Children Mourn TV Mule

LONDON (UP)—Real tears fell in the make-believe world of children's television today.

The tears were those of little girls and boys who learned from their TV screens that Muffin, the mule, is dead.

PLANES NOT IN DANGER

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler said today newspaper and radio accounts of a reported near-collision between a TCA airliner and RCAF training plane last week were "grossly exaggerated and misleading."

He told the Commons that the pilots of both planes sighted each other near Moose Jaw and that at no time was either aircraft in danger.

CHAPTER VI

Improvisation is the gift of invention in its most primitive form. It is the art of coping with the unexpected, of dealing with entirely unforeseen circumstances in such a way that one snatches advantage from them.

The young man who would succeed must learn to practice this art until it becomes habitual, until his mind is ever alert and never at a loss when situations which he had not contemplated arise.

Improvisation is a large part of the art of life. It is of immense importance in the art of success in business.

I strongly urge the young man who would be successful to learn how to improvise.

Although the examples of improvisation which I place before him are taken from war, it is far from my mind to prepare him for another outburst of senseless savagery. My devout hope is that he will live his life in peace. But war does present in an accentuated form many of the problems of business life, and for that reason its lessons are more vivid.

Such examples are also useful in that we still live in a period of transition from war to peace.

Three-quarters of the import of iron and steel, most of the import of iron ore, came from Europe. How did Britain survive? Let the young improviser begin by studying the life of

Ike Makes New Bid for Cut Of 15% in Tariff Structure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for power to make a "moderate, gradual and reciprocal" cut in tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

In a special message, the president said in its own interest the United States requires a foreign economic program that will stimulate economic growth in the free world. He said:

"Our own self-interest requires such a program because (1) economic strength among our allies is essential to our security; (2) economic growth in underdeveloped areas is necessary to lessen international instability growing out of the vulnerability of such areas to communist penetration and subversion; and (3) an increasing volume of world production and trade will help assure our own economic growth and a rising (Continued on Page 3).

Costa Rica Prepares For Invasion

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (Reuters)—All airports and strategic points in this tiny Central American republic were under heavy guard today in face of fears of invasion from across the Nicaraguan border.

The cabinet and general staff are in permanent session, and thousands of volunteer reservists have been mobilized to reinforce the 3,000 strong civil guard, recently retrained with $500,000 worth of U.S. machine guns, mortars and bazookas.

The Organization of American States meets in Washington today to debate Costa Rica's charges that about 600 "rebels," backed by Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza, are poised on the border to attack her.

The Costa Rican president, Jose Figueres said on the eve of the meeting that he expects the 21-member body to send an investigating commission to both Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

DEMOCRACY VS. DICTATORS

Costa Rica charges that Somoza is deliberately trying to help the armed overthrow of the Costa Rican government, and that the plan is to land the rebels by air in remote parts of Costa Rica to make the invasion appear a local uprising.

By December, 1941, Churchill wanted more "tools to finish the job." Did he trust to the machine? Did he tell his minister of supply to "tidy it all up?" Not at all! Churchill, the individualist, set out for Washington in search of weapons for British soldiers, and took me with him.

On arrival in Washington we found that the Americans had drawn up an elaborate program for production. Their plans had been prepared down to the last detail. On paper they made a

2ND HOUSE COMMITTEE TO PROBE STOCK MARKET

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators said today the steep upward spiral in United States stock markets will be investigated by the Senate House economic committee.

Senators John Sparkman (Dem.-Ala.) and Ralph Flanders (Rep.-Vt.), said in separate interviews that the boom in security prices calls for a study to determine if government fiscal policies and legislation are adequate.

Senator William Fulbright (Dem.-Ark.), has already said he will ask the Senate banking committee to conduct a study of the market boom.

The New York market today posted further gains, its second successive rally from the sharp decline registered in the middle of last week.

Gains of 1 to 5 points were common on the New York board today and some issues advanced as much as 5 points. The Toronto market which follows much the same pattern as New York, also showed an upward trend.

CCL Provincial Organization
Warned of 'Dangerous' Situation

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Federation of Labor wound up its 11th annual two-day convention here Sunday with a stinging attack on the government's new Labor Relations Act.

The act was described as the "most vicious piece of labor legislation in North America" as delegates were urged to get out and campaign for changes in it.

The Social Credit government was charged with "political trickery" and "inertia" in its policies toward labor and the unemployment problem.

Earlier, the delegates were told the political situation in B.C. is "dangerous" and that labor must be "on the alert" in dealings with government and management.

More than 120 delegates, representing 50,000 Canadian Congress of Labor members in B.C., met to formulate their legislative program for 1955.

In their report to the convention, federation officers said "the political situation in B.C. is dangerous. We have a political party in power which declares political parties, then proceeds to commit offences that bring politics into disrepute."

"The people can have no confidence in a government," the report added, "when top government officials release statements and then a few days later deny the statements issued by their colleagues."

Saanich Youth Killed When Car Hits Tree

A Saanich youth died instantly in one of two fatal car accidents on Vancouver Island over the week-end.

JAMES MATTHEW LAMONT, 20, of 545 Agnes, was killed in the crash of a car at the intersection of Jedburgh Road and the old Island Highway in View Royal early Sunday.

ORVILLE R. AKENHEAD, a Nanaimo taxi driver, died when his cab plunged 170 feet into a ravine on a logging road near Bear Creek in the Shawnigan district Sunday night.

Lamont was the first victim of a fatal accident of the year in the Greater Victoria area.

Inquest into his death has been set for Wednesday at 10 a.m. at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel.

RUNS INTO TREE

Colwood RCMP worked for about 20 minutes to free the body from tangled wreckage.

They said Lamont was alone in his car when it failed to negotiate a "fairly sharp" turn on the highway, went into a ditch and crashed into a tree.

The car then flipped over on the drivers' side and slid along the highway.

Police said the car traveled a "considerable" distance after leaving the highway.

The car, a 1938 Plymouth, was a total wreck.

Roads were said to be wet, but it was not raining at the time of the accident.

Lamont had been working in Prince George and had returned home about three months ago.

He was single and living at home, police said. He worked as a carpenter.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at Chaplin's. Burial will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

He is survived by his father, Matthew, and his mother, Reta, at home; one brother, David, in Morocco; five sisters, Mrs. Margaret Everett, Welland, Ontario; Mrs. Francis Hutton, Hamilton; Mrs. Irene Cammick, Victoria; Miss Constance Lamont and Miss Carol Lamont at home.

In the second fatality, taxi driver Akenhead was reported to have taken a fare to a B.C. Forest Products Ltd. woods camp on Bear Creek.

He was returning on the logging company's private road, way to Shawnigan Lake, when he crashed through a guard-railing on a trestle.

The cab plunged 170 feet to the bottom of the ravine.

An inquest was scheduled at Duncan at 5 p.m. today. It was expected the inquiry would be adjourned until Wednesday after the body had been identified by relatives from Nanaimo.

Akenhead, 29-year-old married man, who resided at 939 Oakley Street, Nanaimo, was employed by Eagle Taxi.

His body is at Hirst Funeral Chapel at Duncan.

Three men were killed instantly when a truck careened off the Trans-Canada Highway near Golden as British Columbia counted up eight violent deaths during the week-end.

Six of the deaths arose from traffic accidents and there were two gasings.

Segurd T. Johnson, 60; Ernie John Albertson, 30, and an unidentified man, all of Vancouver, were killed Sunday when their half-ton truck went off the Big Bend highway near Golden and fell 300 feet into the canyon.

Jack Diamond, 73, Vancouver, died in a hospital during the week-end from injuries received in a traffic accident Christmas Day. He was listed as Vancouver's 33rd traffic fatality of 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bescott, both 65, of Vancouver, were found dead in their home Sunday when their daughter and son-in-law came to visit them. They died of gas poisoning after apparently forgetting to turn off a gas jet when retiring Saturday night.

The Italian film "Bread, Love and Jealousy," starring Italian actress Gina Lollobrigida, was being shown at the time.

Premier Defends Policy Of Guaranteeing PGE Debt

From CP and BUP Dispatches

VANCOUVER — Premier W. A. C. Bennett defended the B.C. government's policy of provincial guarantee of PGE debt before the Vancouver Board of Trade and its sales and advertising bureau today.

Against criticisms that the government was transferring provincially guaranteed debt to the PGE, school boards, and to the Toll Highways and Bridge Authority, the premier replied this was a customary financing method for "pioneer" projects such as the PGE, and was most sound in the other cases.

The premier turned on

The premier said it was "clearly indicated" at the first legislative session under the present administration that "certain types of borrowings might be necessary with respect to long-term capital projects to expedite the development of the province."

Premier Bennett predicted that there is every reason to expect that upon completion of extensions from Squamish to Vancouver, the PGE's operations "will so increase, and their cost so decrease, that even without the northern potential, revenues will not only carry the cost of this extension, including interest charges on new bonds, but yield a substantial net surplus."

To Fight Suit

VANCOUVER (CP)—George W. Norgan, Vancouver millionaire, today announced he will fight a $10,000,000 lien filed against him by the United States Revenue Department.

Insurance Rates Cut

REGINA (CP)—The Leader-Post says today it has learned Saskatchewan motorists will receive cuts in compulsory automobile insurance premium ranging up to 60 per cent.

The newspaper says the reduction will average 25 per cent of present premiums. Less than 1 per cent of car owners would pay the same premium as last year.

On Last Lap

WINNIPEG (CP)—An RCAF plane, carrying three ailing Eskimos, left Fort Churchill, Man., today on the last lap of a mercy mission into the Arctic.

The plane was carrying a sick child from Baffin Island and two patients bound from Churchill to hospital in The Pas.

Argentine Pen Riot

EVA PERON (La Plata), Argentina (UP)—The worst prison riot in recent Argentine history flared at the Olmos Penitentiary here during the week-end. One convict was killed and 21 police and firemen were wounded in a 10-hour battle.

Some 2,000 prisoners, demanding the reinstatement of a popular warden dismissed after an earlier riot, ran wild through the cell blocks. Everything breakable was smashed, and some inmates set fire to their cells.

ALBERTA PRIEST MURDERED

3 'Teen-Agers Charged Jointly

BRANDON, Man. (BUP)—Three teen-age boys, believed to be from Montreal, were jointly charged today with the gun-shot murder of a Roman Catholic priest whose body was found in his wrecked automobile five miles east of here.

Guy Ferragne, 18; Claude Paquin, 17, and Gerard J. Vyon de Tonnancourt, 17, all recently discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy, were remanded without plea until Jan. 17 when they appeared in police court. Police did not immediately release the home addresses of the RCMP believe robbery was the motive for the slaying of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta., and formerly of Quebec.

Police said the youths had $90 on them which they believe was stolen from the priest, who left Winnipeg about 1 p.m. on his way back to his small parish, 100 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Police said there seemed little doubt that the persons who killed Father Quirion knew he was a priest. His black overcoat and hat were found in the back seat where he apparently had discarded them while driving. He was dressed in his priest's garb.

Ike Makes New Bid For Cut in Tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today asked Congress for power to make a "moderate, gradual and reciprocal" cut in tariffs by as much as 15 per cent.

In a special message, the president said in his own interest the United States requires a foreign economic program that will stimulate economic growth in the free world. He said:

"Our own self-interest requires such a program because (1) economic strength among our allies is essential to our security; (2) economic growth in underdeveloped areas is necessary to lessen international instability growing out of the vulnerability of such areas to communist penetration and subversion; and (3) an increasing volume of world production and trade will help assure our own economic growth and a rising

OTTAWA RUSHES BILL ON KAISER PROJECT

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today introduced in the Commons legislation to give it tight control over the use of river waters flowing into the United States and to revise its authority over the export of other forms of power.

First government bill brought in this session, the water measure would make it necessary to get a federal license to construct any work affecting the natural flow of an international river.

It would apply specifically to provincial governments as well as private interests. Federal authorities already have made it clear an immediate aim of the bill is to block a pending deal between the British Columbia government and the Kaiser Aluminum interests of the United States for use of the Columbia River for hydro power.

Domestic Atom Plants Near, Howe Says

OTTAWA (BUP)—Work on atomic power plants for domestic use may start soon, Trade Minister C. D. Howe indicated in the Commons today.

He said a number of firms had been invited to submit proposals for a joint power development with Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. The proposals are due early in February, Howe said.

He made the statement in reply to a question by George Hees (PC, Toronto-Broadview), who commented on plans announced by the United States government to permit private development of atomic power for civilian use.
